

Iran Mob Invades Oil Firm's Plant

Tear Down Signs; Britain Alerts Planes Near Iran-Iraq Borders

TEHRAN (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh won a vote of confidence from Parliament today amid demonstrations against the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co.

Crowds invaded the company's offices and tore down its signs just before Mossadegh went before Parliament with a warning that violence might follow if the legislators failed to support him. They gave him a 91 to 0 vote of confidence.

(Reuters reported from Baghdad today, that R.A.F. planes have been alerted at Habbaniyah airfield in Iraq, close to the Iranian border. It was understood, Reuters said, they were called to the ready to protect British lives and property in Iran should the need arise.)

Mossadegh told Parliament he will "proceed to take over the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. because the country demands it." He sought the vote of confidence as a token of country-wide approval of his policies.

The Premier said there would be "no compromise" with the British-controlled company. The government has taken control of its refinery and other operations in this country. No method for compensating the company has been determined.

Protest Lack Of Protection

The demonstrators were in a holiday spirit as they entered Anglo-Iranian's Tehran offices to tear down its signs. The A.I.O.C. placards were kicked to pieces while new signs bearing the name "Iran National Oil Co." were put up.

There was no serious damage to the offices, but the British Embassy said a protest would be made against police failure to halt the demonstrators.

"Death to the oil company" was one shouted slogan. Others were: "Down with the British" and "Long live Mossadegh."

The Premier, in seeking the vote of confidence, had to call Parliament into session twice. Mossadegh found a quorum lacking in the morning and demanded another session, saying: "If the Majlis (lower House) refuses to meet at 4 p.m., my government will not be responsible for incidents which may occur."

There were growing reports that many legislators were cooling towards Mossadegh's campaign to drive the British company from Iran, but when the showdown came at the afternoon session, not one of the legislators was recorded in opposition to him.

The deepening Iranian oil crisis bubbled toward a climax Wednesday night after Iran spurned British mediation offers and issued orders tightening Iranian control over the billion-dollar company.

Cabinet Refuses Increase To Race Track Operators

The provincial cabinet at a special meeting today refused to pay a larger share of the pari-mutual tax on horse racing to B.C. horsemen.

The horsemen had requested payment of one half of one per cent of the tax to increase purses at Lansdowne and Hastings Park.

Following the meeting of the cabinet Premier Johnson said: "In view of the fact that considerable assistance has been given by the government, both to horsemen and track operators, and also in view of the fact that horsemen entering mounts at B.C. racetracks have declined to submit their case to arbitration, the government intends to take no further action, or give any further assistance in respect to purses paid to horsemen."

The government already gives the horsemen one per cent of its pari-mutual revenue take, roughly $80,000 for the Lansdowne and Exhibition Park tracks. Last year it collected $300,000 from the Lansdowne meet.

U.S. Widens Crackdown On Red Leaders

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. government's second big crackdown on American Communist leaders widened today following the roundup of 17 members of the party's team.

More junior commissioners are due for prosecution, authorities indicated. Out of 21 Red leaders indicted here Wednesday, four still were sought today.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents seized 16 here early Wednesday, and a 17th was arrested in Pittsburgh. The roundup came 16 days after the U.S. Supreme Court affirmed the convictions of 11 top Communist leaders.

The 21 are charged with criminal conspiracy to teach and advocate overthrow of the government by force and violence.

The indictment was the first mass prosecution of Communists since the June 4 Supreme Court ruling upholding constitutionality of the Smith Act, under which the 11 top Red leaders were convicted in 1949.

The 21 Reds were indicted for allegedly taking part in the same conspiracy for which the 11 were convicted.

Baby Thrown Out

NEW YORK (AP)—A 14-year-old girl gave birth to a son in the bathroom of her apartment early today, then threw the infant out the window to a roof 15 feet below, police reported. Police found the child after the mother, Ruth Ricchich, had been taken to a hospital. He was put in an oxygen tent and later was reported doing well.

Bakery Union Plans Strike In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Seven major bakery firms have bypassed a union negotiating committee and placed a new offer directly with 500 union members. But the employees may strike Sunday.

Spokesmen for the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' Union, Local 468 (T.L.C.) say the bakers may walk out because the companies failed to make the offer through the Labor Relations Board.

But Aubrey F. Roberts, representing the Society of Bakery Employers, insisted today that the employers had made the offer in the proper way.

"We gave the bakers what they demanded but the union's negotiating committee refused to recommend the offer to its members," he said.

B.C.E. Engineer Honored

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (CP)—T. Ingledew of Vancouver, vice-president and chief engineer of B.C. Electric, was Wednesday elected president of the Canadian Electric Association in annual convention. He succeeds G. H. Thompson of Montreal.

Atomic Pile Operates

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's second atomic pile, producing plutonium, now is operating at the Sellafield atomic energy factory in West Cumberland, the Ministry of Supply announced Wednesday night.

DEFECTIVE SHELLS KILL 8 MARINES IN TRAINING

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP)—Two defective mortar shells fell short and burst into a company of advancing 2nd Division marines here Wednesday, killing eight and injuring 23.

Witnesses said the mortar runners saw that the shells were defective a split second after they were fired during a routine training exercise at the big marine base.

A public information officer said that of the 23 wounded, 12 were in serious condition.

Sprinkling Restrictions Begin Friday In Oak Bay

Every Other Day Watering Necessary Because Of Drought, Says Musgrave

Continuing drought today forced compulsory watering restrictions in Oak Bay.

Municipal engineer A. S. G. Musgrave announced that effective Friday householders with even-numbered homes must water only on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and persons with odd-numbered residences must water only on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

The engineer made a special appeal to municipal residents not to water tonight.

In recent weeks, Oak Bay residents have been on an honor system to water only three nights a week, but the nights could be of their own choosing.

PRESSURE LOW

Mr. Musgrave said there was no actual water shortage, but that so much water was being used, pressure had been reduced to such an extent that many homes in the high Uplands district had been without water altogether.

Regulations to be put into effect will ban the use of fixed (underground) sprinkling systems every day from 5 to 9 p.m.

Watering will be entirely unrestricted, however, on Sundays and from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. on all weekdays.

Mr. Musgrave offered hope the voluntary system might again be put into force in about four weeks' time.

"Experience has shown the problem is never as great after the middle of July,"

Cabinet Meets On Salaries

B.C.'s 8,000 civil servants may know in a week how they stand with the government in their attempts to obtain salary increases.

A special cabinet committee met at length on the matter again Wednesday, and a spokesman said today good progress was made and "there might be something more definite to say in a week or so."

The civil servants asked originally for a 15 per cent increase across the board. The government made a counter offer, details of which have not been made known. The executive of the Government Employees' Association rejected parts of the counter offer and suggested new sections. The cabinet committee now is analyzing the later request from the employees.

8,023 Enlisted In 27th Brigade

OTTAWA (CP)—Enlistments for service in the army's 27th Brigade, destined mainly for service in Europe, total 8,032, the army said today.

Of 14,215 applications so far received, there have been 4,053 rejections. Still being processed are 2,139 applications.

Looks Happy

Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler gave a big smile today as he prepared to sign the agreement that will cut him loose from his job but guarantee his salary of $65,000 until next April and indemnify him against personal losses he might suffer in pending suits against organized baseball. Loggers Warned Of Hazard As Sayward Forest Closed

More Fires Break Out In Large Area

The vast Sayward forest area north of Campbell River and Lakes will be closed to the traveling public and prospectors without written permits from tomorrow until further notice because of the extremely high fire hazard conditions in the area. B.C. Forest Service officials reported today.

The tinder-dry condition of the woods brought a warning from forestry officials to logging operators and the public to use extreme caution from now on until the danger is eliminated throughout the whole Vancouver forest district.

Logging operators who have not closed down are advised to place early morning guards to avert fires.

The government action in Sayward Forest came with the outbreak of two new fires in the area. Campers, fishermen, travellers and prospectors are forbidden to enter the forest without first getting a written permit from the fire ranger in the area. The area south of Campbell River and Lake is not included in the closure.

The Forest Service reported 15 fires were burning today in the Vancouver Forest Service.

NEW OUTBREAKS

The new outbreaks in the upper island forest are 10 acres and 100 acres in size being fought by 90 men and two tractors.

Other fires in the district are: 1. Mill Bay, 20-acre fire that broke out Wednesday afternoon now controlled; 40 men and two cats still on the job.

2. Langford, two small fires in sawdust dumps.

3. Nanaimo area, four new fires, three of them extinguished, the fourth over a half-acre under control.

4. Port Hardy, two fires under control being patrolled.

5. Alert Bay, small fire under control being patrolled.

6. Pender Island, 40-acre fire on operations of Garden Bay Logging Co. now believed to be under control.

7. Squamish area, fire near Alta Lake on P.G.E. under control but 29 men standing by.

8. Sechart area, new small fire on Indian reservation under control.

9. Azzasiz, 100-acre blaze on Bear Creek Logging Company operations on Cogburn Creek, 90 men are fighting it.

The hazard is considered extreme when humidity is below 35 per cent and yesterday's low readings showed conditions were very dangerous. Following is the humidity readings at Ranger lookout posts: Langford 35, Empress 14, Shepherd 15, and Provest 25.

Reds Infiltrate Vital Plants

OTTAWA (BUP)—There has been "some infiltration" of Communists in Canada's vital defense plants, according to a federal security officer.

"But we don't have too much of it," said E. S. Parkin, defense production department security director.

Civil Defense Bill

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman asked Congress today for $335,000,000 civil defense, saying this country must assume Russia is capable of dropping atomic bombs on American cities "no matter how good our defenses may be."

Off For Channel Swim

The Tongay children, Bubba, 5, left, and Kathy, 4, left their Miami home on their way to England for an attempt to swim the Channel in August. R.C.A.F. Plane Starts Mercy Flight To Arctic WINNIPEG (CP)—An R.C.A.F. Dakota, on 2,300-mile mercy flight from Winnipeg to Mould Bay today refueled at Resolute Bay at 10:48 a.m. CDT and proceeded on its mission. It had passed over the Magnetic North Pole at 9 a.m.

The craft took off from Winnipeg late Wednesday to pick up an ailing radio man employed at the Mould Bay weather station, on the south side of Prince Patrick's Island in the Beaufort Sea, about 1,500 miles north of Edmonton.

Air force officials said the name of the sick man, suffering a perforated ulcer and possible peritonitis, has been withheld until relatives are notified.

After leaving Winnipeg, the plane touched down at Churchill, Man., at 10 p.m. Wednesday night to refuel and pick up Dr. D. D. Lee, in his third year with the Canadian Officers Training Corps.

The Dakota took off at midnight for the 515-mile flight to Coral Harbor on Southampton Island, but it was reported en route that the landing strip was too broken up to land. It stopped to refuel at Baker Lake near Chesterfield Inlet instead, cutting 120 miles off the original trip. It then continued on to Resolute Bay on Cornwallis Island. The last lap is the 425 miles to Mould Bay.

The plane must land on a comparatively short 2,100-foot runway at the Mould Bay station, normally manned by about 12 men from the United States and Commonwealth countries.

In the event that any of the landing strips on its long route should fog in, the aircraft is

BRITAIN NOT ABLE TO STOP SWIM BABIES

LONDON (AP)—The swimming Tongays from Miami, Fla., probably will be permitted to land in England, a government spokesman hinted today.

Home Secretary J. Chuter Ede said he had so far found no grounds for excluding them despite plans for Bubba Tongay, aged five, and his sister Kathy, four, to try swimming the English Channel.

The project has aroused outraged outcries from child lovers on both sides of the Atlantic.

Ede told the House of Commons immigration officers may "attach suitable conditions" to any entry permit for the two water babies and their father, Russell.

FIRST MEETING HELD

Arena Commission May Elect Penderay

The arena commission today held its first meeting since recent membership changes were made, and immediately delved into a considerable stack of business which has been piling up.

It was indicated J. Carl Penderay, one of two men appointed to replace Bill Bridge-wood and former chairman F. N. Cabell, would be named to head the commission.

It was understood other members favored him as the man for the job, but Mr. Penderay would not say prior to the meeting whether or not he would accept.

Sitting on the commission for the first time in addition to Mr. Penderay were W. L. Woodhouse and H. W. Davey, K.C. Mr. Davey was appointed to the arena group following the resignation of R. C. Field.

Among major items scheduled for discussion at the meeting was the matter of the contract with the Victoria Hockey Club. The club's two-year agreement with the commission, under which it hired the arena at a flat rate, has expired.

There have been indications the commission will try to make the new contract, now under negotiation, on a percentage basis—that is, the arena to get a percentage of the gate rather than a flat rate.

Truman Will Not Intervene

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman said today he has no plans at present to intervene in the pilots' strike against United Air Lines.

He also said that inter-American relations are better today than at any other time in history. This was in connection with the current visit of President Galo Plaza of Ecuador.

That was about the extent of the news at Mr. Truman's weekly meeting with reporters.

Navy Secretary In New Post

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of Navy Francis P. Matthews has decided to resign and accept appointment as U.S. ambassador to Ireland, it was disclosed today.

The diplomatic post in Dublin was offered some time ago to the 64-year-old cabinet officer from Omaha. He only recently advised President Truman that he would accept.

The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime BY R. T. WEBSTER

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

'NYLON, PYLON AND SKYLON'

LONDON—A prominent English architect a few days ago scathingly described the modern age as that of "nylon, pylon and skylon." And you don't have to be in Britain long to realize how appropriate a description that is. For, in incongruous juxtaposition with the ancient and archaic, you constantly come across examples of the ultra-modern on every hand.

A typical example is to be found at Poplar, that badly-blitzed part of the East End of London, where an Exhibition of Architecture is rising out of the grey and blackened ruins. As part of the Festival of Britain, the London County Council and the Council for Architecture have taken a 30-acre site in the heart of this bombed area and on it are building the sort of London the planners promise.

TOMORROW'S LONDON

WHEN finished it will be organized into 11 "neighborhoods," each almost self-contained. One such "neighborhood" has already been completed, with row after row of two-story houses, each as tightly designed as a submarine—ever the "prim" has its own little niche under the stairs—with sitting room and kitchen downstairs, three bedrooms and bathroom upstairs—all for 30s. a week.

Further up the wide, quiet street is a new market-place of a type that is an innovation for London. It is a sort of piazza for pedestrians only. Its arcades are lined with green pillars, and there is a wide space for Poplar's barrow stalls—a striking but welcome contrast to the Caledonian Market, for instance.

PRE-FABS GOING

OUT in Tooting, another suburb of London, the first 16 "pre-fabs"—forerunner of the "pre-fabs" that now dot the urban and rural landscapes—are being torn down after seven years' occupancy. These pre-fabs, little more than boxes but priceless shelter to people who were bombed out of their homes, are being pulled down as their families are re-housed.

And many of these families are being re-located in the huge, modern blocks of flats—apartments to you—that are going up all over the country. They are an astonishing sight to a wanderer returned, with their blatant exploitation of the plastic element of modern structural methods and materials, with their acres of windows and miles of balconies. I have not seen it, but I understand that one such tenement in Leeds, said to be the largest of its kind in Britain, will when completed provide 2,000 apartments to house 8,500 people.

COUNTRY COTTAGES

EVEN in such rural centres as Stratford-on-Avon, the newest workmen's cottages are of stiff, concrete functional design—an affront to the eye in that ancient shrine, in my old-fashioned opinion, although I know the modernists won't agree with me.

With this trend towards the "skylon, pylon" note in architecture, it is only to be expected that the newer institutional buildings are all of ultra-modern design, with emphasis on the functional rather than the ornamental, with the result that they are, to me, the quintessence of cold, austere efficiency, somewhat suggestive of a clinic.

COLD EFFICIENCY

I HAVEN'T yet become accustomed to the recently rebuilt stations of the Underground, with their curious circular modern design, any more than I have to the extraordinarily long and steep escalators that carry their thousands of passengers down deep into the bowels of the earth.

And every time I pass through Battersea I shudder anew at the monotony of modernity known as the Battersea Power Station, whose gaunt, column-like chimneys dominate the whole horizon for miles around, in flaunting but futile competition with the beauty of age-old St. Stephens and the tower that houses Big Ben.

D.V.A. Centres Aid Arthritis, Polio Research

C.M.A. Parley Told Of New Drugs, Cures

MONTREAL (CP)—What Canadian doctors learned in treating nerve injuries to limbs of war veterans has advanced the treatment of arthritis and polio patients, Dr. James E. Bateman said today.

The Toronto orthopedic surgeon reported on the work to the annual meeting of the Canadian Medical Association.

New techniques and instruments developed at Veteran's Affairs Department centres were pooled.

In addition to a new method of "gluing" nerves together, an operative technique was developed in Toronto to remove the nerve supply to certain body joints.

Doctors in Montreal have developed two new instruments now proving valuable in treatment of such diseases as polio, said Dr. Bateman.

The instruments are the electromyograph, which measures muscle activity, and the dermometer, which measures skin resistance.

DRUGS ONLY TEMPORARY

Dr. W. L. Donohue, Toronto, said the drugs ACTH and Cortisone do not permanently cure leukemia in children—cancer of the blood-forming tissues—but are valuable tools for further investigation of the disease. In a study of 37 children treated, it was found that in about half the cases such a "dramatic" remission of the disease resulted that no evidence of leukemia was present. But the remission lasted only 114 to 243 days.

FAVOR RESUSCITATORS

Only 17 per cent of obstetricians favor such once-common methods as slapping a newborn baby's backside or tickling his feet to start him breathing, Dr. J. L. McArthur of Montreal reported.

Mechanical resuscitators providing oxygen are used in 90 per cent of the obstetrical services polled, often in combination with other methods.

CANCER SURGERY

If you are over 40, suffer from mild indigestion, get the burps and haven't much appetite, head straight for your doctor. You may have signs of stomach cancer. That's what Dr. A. W. Hardy of Edmonton told delegates.

"Great strides are being made in the techniques for surgery in stomach cancer," said Dr. Hardy.

AID THROMBOSIS VICTIMS

Dr. A. M. Vineburg, of the Department of Experimental Surgery, McGill University, told how transplanting a chest artery to the heart may successfully relieve certain patients suffering from coronary thrombosis.

E. R. Heal, Saanich, samples dry earth.

Government Help Asked For Saanich Irrigation

Southern Vancouver Island's most serious drought in many years continued today with no rain in sight and revived talks in the Saanich area for a large-scale irrigation system.

Farm leaders declared the agriculturists of the area face a $100,000 loss this summer if the current dry spell, exceeded only in 1935 and 1898, continues much longer.

Saanich farmers whose holdings are near adequate water supply are now making full use of it to save their crops. Others not so fortunate face heavy losses.

Saanich area agriculturists maintain an irrigation system would turn the southern island area into a virtual "Garden of the Pacific," and hinted government action should be taken.

"If the government can build an irrigation system for the Okanagan it could do the same for Saanich," said one farmer. "The population of South Vancouver Island is growing rapidly and adequate water supply is more necessary here than in less-populated districts."

On top of impending heavy losses as the result of drought, many growers reported their cherry crop has been ruined because of improper pollination this spring. Raspberry canes were also infected in some areas and this would reduce the crop considerably, they said.

Pre-Paid Medical Care Plan Hailed By Doctors

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Medical Association's new plan for pre-paid medical care was hailed today by the association's 9,000 members as "the answer to socialized medicine."

Dr. P. H. McNulty of Winnipeg, first chairman of the C.M.A.'s Trans-Canada Medical Services, said in an interview that the plan has been endorsed by association members.

It is aimed at lifting the fear of doctors' bills from Canadians. The plan is expected to cost a family of three about $72 annually and $36 for a single person.

"We expect to give better service to the public than any government scheme," he said. "State medicine destroys the doctor-patient relationship. It destroys the morale of the individual by giving him something for nothing—he'll regard it as worth nothing."

Dr. McNulty said the government will be asked to pay the full cost of premiums of some sections of the population.

The plan's first job, he explained, will be to arrange a system of reciprocity between the provinces, so that persons belonging to the plan could get full coverage in any part of the country. Six provincial non-profit, pre-paid medical care groups form the basis of Trans-Canada Medical Services, but Quebec is not among them.

Another important job to be tackled by T.C.M.S., Dr. McNulty added, is to extend benefits to individuals who can't get coverage in groups.

Edmonton Plans To Curb Rioters

Mayor Criticizes Citizens For Creating Traffic Tie-Up

EDMONTON (CP)—Police and legal department heads met with Mayor Sidney Parsons today to plan action to curb fights between zoot-suiters and service men. Wednesday night thousands of expectant Edmontonians jammed downtown streets hoping to have a ringside view of a battle between drape-trousered teen-agers and service men. But nothing serious developed.

Slowdown Of Oil From Iran Hard On West

LONDON (AP)—Stoppage or even reduction of Iran's annual production of 30,000,000 tons of oil would pose serious problems for the free world.

British officials say Iranian production equalled three-fifths of western Europe's total annual consumption and any interference with the flow of this oil might mean a slowing down of western rearmament programs.

Besides supplying part of the civilian needs of both Europe and Asia, Iran is the chief source of fuel oil for the Royal Navy.

Between 6,000,000 and 8,000,000 tons of Iran's annual output is exported in the form of crude oil—mainly to Europe. The Royal Navy takes an additional big slice from Iranian refineries.

About another 5,000,000 tons is sent to Europe in refined forms. The rest goes to markets east of Suez.

Charles L. Harding, director in charge of Middle East affairs for the Sococo-Vacuum Oil Company, said in a statement in New York that nationalization of the British-owned company in Iran reaches far beyond the Iranian-British dispute and affects "the welfare of all nations and perhaps the future of international conduct."

Oil production in the west is not sufficient to supply all of the west's friendly countries, he said.

A combined R.C.A.F.-Army patrol toured the streets and the city police force was out in full strength. Army and Air Force officers and Chief Constable Reg Jennings directed patrolling operations from the city police station until well after midnight.

Two air force men were sent to hospital with head injuries and a dozen other service men and teen-agers suffered minor injuries in street clashes Tuesday night.

Rumors of a big fight brought one of the biggest crowds since V-E day to downtown streets Wednesday night.

Mayor Parsons said today's meeting might result in several sections being taken. He said the city's by-laws are being checked to ensure that existing laws are broad enough to cope with the situation.

He bitterly criticized the citizens who jammed the streets "to see a free show."

"They caused more trouble than all the zoot-suiters and service men," he said. "They've got to learn to act differently."

SOLDIER INJURED

Army Pte. Phillip Houle suffered a broken leg in a traffic jam Wednesday night. The car which struck him did not stop. Pte. Houle was standing with other spectators less than half a block from the police station.

Despite a serious traffic tie-up, police said there was little real trouble from the service personnel and the teen-agers. One or two minor scuffles were reported.

Two persons were arrested by police and military provost officers—an army sergeant and a teen-ager who was carrying a home-made blackjack.

Dam Protest Voted Down

A resolution condemning the damming of Butte Lake was defeated at Wednesday night's meeting of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council (T.L.C.).

Approved by the meeting was the submission of a brief to the Royal Commission inquiring into the Workmen's Compensation Act asking that a medical board be set up to consider appeals by individuals not satisfied with the findings of Compensation Board doctors.

Secretary Percy Rayment was elected to sit on the local board of referees of the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

U.N. Korea Stand Made Reds Pause

WASHINGTON (UP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley said today the determined United Nations stand in Korea forced the Communists to "pause . . . in their plan for world domination" and give the free world "one precious year to prepare."

In presenting the Medal of Honor, the nation's highest decoration, to relatives of 11 army heroes of the Korean war, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff paid this tribute to their dead or missing kin.

"All fought to preserve the way of life, the ideals, the liberty and independence treasured by the U.S. and its allies."

TUGBOAT CAPT. DROWNS IN FREAK GANGES MISHAP

NANAIMO—David Mackie, 22, of Nanaimo, a tugboat skipper, was dead today because he took a plunge into Ganges Harbor, Salt Spring Island, to cool off, despite the fact he could not swim.

Mackie, according to witnesses, had tossed a life preserver into the water. He apparently intended to dive to it and paddle back to shore. Instead, he missed the life preserver and sank.

The mishap took place late Wednesday afternoon. The body was recovered half an hour later. Mackie was skipper of the Nanaimo-based tug Harris III.

Beef Boycott Started Labor Council Hears

A boycott on beef is already on in Victoria, and an organized buyers' strike is not necessary, Victoria Labor Council (C.L.C.) members learned at a council session Wednesday night.

When the strike suggestion was put forward a majority of members said most families cut down on their meat buying some time ago.

It was felt that a strong buyers' strike in Canada would only divert more Canadian meat to the United States, however, and not reduce prices here.

Meat prices in local butcher shops were little changed again today.

In Vancouver, cattle buyer John Jensen was going ahead with plans for putting horse meat on sale.

Deflation Must Hurt

THE CANADIAN AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY naturally is disturbed because the federal government's deflation policy is reducing the sale of cars. But if the policy did not reduce the sale of cars, and other things, it would be a failure at the start. Its whole purpose is to diminish the demand for goods which the national economy cannot afford to produce when its energies are needed for defence. Thus the current difficulties of the automobile and other industries are the best proof that the policy of deflation is working.

The government's problem is to manage the diversion of manpower, machinery and materials smoothly from civilian to defense production. In the automobile industry, apparently, the diversion has not been smooth. Unable to sell all their output, some automobile factories threaten to reduce their operations before they are given defence orders to keep them busy. An idle factory, idle men and idle materials are no use to the economy. Mr. Howe indicates, however, that he will soon have the automobile industry busy with the manufacture of weapons, which is the objective of his program.

The industry complains against the new credit restrictions because they persuade many people not to buy cars. The credit restrictions have no other intention. The government is attempting to restrict all credit, which is the bulk of the nation's money supply, because the supply is too large and is bidding up prices. To strike hardest at non-essential manufactures, the government also has placed a 25 per cent excise tax on automobiles and other semi-durable goods. The purpose of the tax is not to raise revenue but, by making certain prices high, to discourage sales and the use of scarce materials and labor. The high price of automobiles, deliberately raised by the excise tax, no doubt is as great a barrier to sales as credit restrictions. Until the automobile industry is occupied with defence orders the government is being importuned to relax its deflation policy in this single case, perhaps restoring the present regulations later on. This Mr. Abbott announces the government will not do, since if the government is driven into anything like a general relaxation the deflation policy will be dead before it can get under way.

It has yet to be proved, indeed, that deflation is going far enough. The danger is not that it will succeed too well but that it will fail and result in a further spiral of inflation. As Mr. Abbott says, it is hard to enforce deflation but easy, if deflation goes too far, to reverse the process. The government should be careful not to reverse it too soon.

It must be remembered that while America enjoys today a lull in inflation and a momentary stability in prices a new upward pressure will probably develop when the armament program is fully under way, with its vast appetite for labor and materials, toward the end of the year.

Against this new danger the present policy is being erected, here and in the United States. If it is crippled now we shall enter the next round of this struggle unprepared.

The simple fact is that America has been trying to use more civilian goods than it can produce while producing for defence. One way or another—either by orderly deflation or by inflationary prices which the consumer cannot pay—the consumption of civilian goods must be held down. The wise policy must be to hold down the consumption of non-essentials and thereby maintain the supplies of essentials.

The Other Side Of Franco

FEW PEOPLE IN THE UNITED STATES have ever regarded General Franco, the Spanish dictator, as a desirable ally, but some have thought him at least reliable. For if he destroyed the liberties of the Spanish people at least he could control them as part of the defensive forces of western Europe. Now, writes Mr. Joseph Harrison, foreign editor of The Christian Science Monitor, even this assurance is shaken since Franco obviously is in considerable trouble at home.

The significance of the nationwide strikes which have rocked Spain in recent months has been largely overlooked in America. It is well understood by Mr. Harrison, who spent many years of his professional life in Europe. He says that for the first time since 1939, when he came to power after a bloody civil war, General Franco has encountered a form of people's protest which he is unable to suppress.

When the workers simply stayed away from work in many Spanish cities the government threatened to dismiss them. Still they did not return. The movement grew to such proportions that the government had to abandon its threat and let the workers go back to their jobs when they were ready to do so.

Never before had the government's authority been challenged in such a fashion. It can no longer be said, Mr. Harrison believes, that under any conditions—conditions of war, for example—Franco can deliver the Spanish people anywhere and for any purpose he chooses. Franco's friends in America have evidently been counting too much on his power and too little on the quiet power of those millions of Spaniards who hate the present regime.

Francisco, as Mr. Harrison says, has held office on the basis that he and he alone could extinguish, and has extinguished, communism. Yet he blames communism for the recent strikes. Either he failed to extinguish the old communists or new ones have arisen. In either case, by his own admission, his great objective—and about his only justification—is failing. These unfolding events should be watched carefully in America before we assume that we have a sure friend and a solid government in Spain.

The Farmer Still Loses

THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT apparently has discovered a small but convenient loophole in the international wheat agreement. This has been used to raise the price of wheat for the producers by 6 cents a bushel, the increase being described as a "carrying charge."

The basic price remains unchanged, at about $1.90 a bushel as against the current world price of about $2.35. The Canadian farmer, under the agreement, is thus receiving about 40 cents less per bushel than the free world market is prepared to pay.

Since the agreement began he has lost something over $70 millions, after losing by the same sort of process something over $300 millions on the British wheat deal, for which he was compensated by $65 millions from the federal treasury.

The Western Producer, a leading champion of agriculture, protests that the farmer, contrary to the general opinion, is not making a killing these days. This no doubt is true. But the farmers in the main, through their organizations, persuaded the government to enter the British contract and they seemed willing enough to enter the world agreement.

As against their losses through these methods, however, they have secured, a stability of price perhaps more valuable than temporary gains in cash. No one can tell until the world agreement is complete—world prices may drop below the agreement price by then—how the experiment will work out. Meanwhile, though a "carrying charge" can be levied under a loose clause in the agreement Canada cannot expect to raise its prices any further without destroying the agreement altogether.

Time To Revive Bipartisan Policy

SINCE THE RETIREMENT OF THE late Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, the once-cohesive bipartisan foreign policy of the United States has been hastening toward decay. Under normal circumstances, that might be a matter of concern to the United States only. In the critical times through which we have been passing, and in view of the acknowledged position of world leadership enjoyed by the United States, it becomes an issue spreading out to all corners of the globe.

Allies of the United States have been baffled by the apparent lack of unity in America's approach to critical issues. The emergence of the MacArthur "foreign policy" added another complication to a subject already complex in the eyes of America's friends.

Under these circumstances, the pleas of Republican Sen. James H. Duff and of Democratic Representative Brooks Hays to Congress, to rise above personalities in order to re-establish a bipartisan foreign policy, will be widely applauded. It is one thing to explain differences in the United States on the basis of internal politics and the fire-works leading up to a presidential election year. It is something different to convince outsiders that such displays do not indicate unbridgeable chasms dividing different factions in the country.

For the sake of unity it is to be hoped the two protagonists of bipartisan foreign policy will be heard in their own country. It is to be hoped that their case will revive an effective means of presenting a united front to compelling issues. Without it, the free world partnership obviously loses strength.

Off The Beaten Track

THE PLIGHT OF 18 JAPANESE ON a lonely Pacific island, all of whom apparently believe the war still to be in progress, has moved U.S. military and civilian officials to organize an "invasion" of their hide-out to persuade them to give up the fight.

They do not constitute the only isolated group of Japanese soldiers to carry on a struggle long since terminated by their homeland. But fanaticism knows no bounds. These men are evidently ready to kill all who approach their stronghold. The events of the last seven years have passed them by.

Observers may detect in this group, so eager to fight a war long after it is over, the same type of mind which is so eager to pick one long before it begins. Where they are, they can do no harm to anyone but themselves. It might perhaps be better to leave them to their own devices to let them rest in peace, or, as it were, in war.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

ONE of my sons, aged nearly ten, has a vocabulary that is fairly useful and almost literate. I suspect him of reading a book or two here and there, in between Classy Comics. I also suspect him of tuning in on grown-up conversation, whenever it is worth hearing (which is seldom enough). At any rate, his little pals have accused him of adopting a stilted and highly affected manner of speech. Why (they ask him) should he use a single word like "obviously" when he could just as well use four and say "Any dope knows dat"? That's a good question, and one not easily answered. Most of them merely mock him, but one of them, more polished than the rest, took him court-teously aside the other day and said, "Listen, John, dere's sumpn ya should know. Some-a yer words are too long. Wotcha doon it for? Er ya a sissy er sumpn?"

I DON'T think the old gang will exactly bump him off for trying to express himself clearly. But he has certainly been warned. I don't think the gang is dead wrong. In certain circles, it is both prudent and polite to adopt the local idiom. Also, you must adjust your speech to your audience lest you be misunderstood, quite apart from being misjudged as a dirty snob or a nasty little bookworm. Yet I can't think the gang is dead right, either. To have a fairly wide choice of words, and to choose them fairly accurately, is not only a rich pleasure but a very practical business as well. And the younger you begin, the better off you are.

An Irish farm-hand is not a bit ashamed of having a vocabulary of some 6,000 words. . . . perhaps three or four times as many as an English farm-hand. Neither is he proud and affected by it; it seems merely sensible to him. If an educated boy of ten can speak half as well as an Irish farm-hand, I can't for the life of me see why he should be hooded off the streets. But there it is.

I HAVE myself been told that from time to time my words have a bad tendency to mean something. This is indeed a hell of a thing and I must struggle to overcome it. First thing I know, I'll actually be saying something, which is often dangerous and always offensive. Men have had their heads cut off for such a crime. No, mumbled and fumbled is the only gentlemanly way to converse. If you will forgive me for calling a book to your unbookish attention, the Holy Bible says in Nahum 1:11, "I will actually be saying something, which is often dangerous and always offensive."

I CAN'T recall many examples offhand. I only know I have been harshly criticized. But I do remember one time when I said casually that I had cast something away, and a friend of mine gave me a good dressing-down for that verb. He wanted to know why I chose it. Well, darling, I didn't choose it at all. It just cropped up by itself. I asked if "hurled" would suit him better, but he said no, the only acceptable word was "thrown." No other verb existed for that purpose, he told me. (It was mighty civil of him to explain all this.) He said the verb "cast" had now been cast away, except in church.

I asked him what fly-fishers did with their flies, then . . . did they throw them instead of casting them? He said fishermen didn't count, having a jargon of their own. And that, dear friends, was that. Well, it's nice to learn a new fact each day.

ONCE wrote a little rhyme on this subject. It ran something like this: There once was a man who expressed himself well. And his friends all said that was affected. So he studied and studied and studied like hell.

To make his thoughts more disconnected. And more what the neighbors expected.

MANKIND A POPULAR author recently got off a book to say he was proud of being a member of the human race. This annoys Mr. Jack Scott of the Vancouver Daily Sun, who says that men are stinkers. He says humans are the only creatures that kill their own kind. I think he forgets about bees and spiders, who kill their husbands. Bees also try to kill new colonies brought into the apiary, because they don't like the strange new smell, but if you dust the bees, they get so busy cleaning themselves off that they have time to forget the new smell.

Ants have terrific wars, just for the hell of it. Whole cities of ants suddenly go mad, too, and go in for suicide and murder. Human cities are better than that. . . . they just go nuts gradually, not suddenly, so that some of us have time to escape. I have watched dogs killing their own kind. Cats, too. Also crows, gulls, roosters, and many others. If Mr. Scott and I were crows, I'd be obliged to peck him to death for differing from me.

ONE thing I like about men is that they change their customs faster than other critters. Sometimes for the worse, but often for the better. We no longer stone prophets to death, or even adulterers. That's something we should be grateful for, even if we're neither of those two things ourselves. Another thing I like about men is that they often turn out to be something very like poets, though few of them get it onto paper. Bears and giraffes come far short of us in this. I don't like men's faces or small talk very much. But I like men's cookery. I like a species that has invented so many curious pleasures, ranging from philosophy to draw-poker.

Best of all, I like a species that is quite willing to die for a carefully weighed idea and not just from blind instinct like a couple of rutting stags. Speaking of rutting stags, I also like chivalry, which was an entirely human and admirable thing while it lasted.

UGH I WISH children and grown-ups playing Indian would stop saying "Ugh." If the G in "Ugh" should be sounded. The Indians and I feel very strongly about this. It's a bad, bad business. What are we coming to?

Pretty Rocky Soil

As Our Readers See It

IMMORTALITY

It is recorded that Solomon asked that he might know the difference between good and evil—his prayer was answered, and he is now renowned for his wisdom. This understanding that Solomon gained is what your correspondents appear to be defining as a mature mind. They should deal with the subject from the standpoint of a mature understanding.

The Bible also speaks of that Mind which was also in Christ Jesus—this Mind expressed itself in Jesus in a perfect understanding, and consequently he is now recognized as the greatest of men—not because of his human position, but because of his perfect understanding of God, whom he persistently called Father.

Most of our difficulties stem from the ignorance of the theologians of the early years of Christianity. They wanted to make something whereby they could establish themselves, and one of the first steps was to deify Jesus, thereby violating the First Commandment. From this false teaching we have numbers of other foolish conceptions such as the mother of Jesus being the mother of God, bringing the Creator whom Jesus called "Our Father" down to human dimensions, and confounding the ignorant for centuries.

Such discussions as are now taking place show that people are interested to get acquainted intelligently with God, and to understand what His son Jesus really taught.

REALIST.

MAKES SUGGESTION

May I offer the humble suggestion that the Prince Robt. House be reopened as a service men's and women's centre?

As a former service man I know, like thousands of others in Victoria, how definitely welcome such a place is. Baracks is a pretty lonely place and far from home. A centre helps to fill that need.

It may be said that the "Y" and others are helping already but only a service man or woman could explain the difference in a place to relax away from discipline and yet with other comrades in uniform. Movies could be shown every night. The Public Library has lots of them we are told. I remember some of the movies we saw during the war were pretty disconnected, dim and not always continuous, but at the same time the shows were always crowded.

It was somewhere to go—a little something to help things along. We have the Memorial Arena as a memorial for those who died—how about a memorial for those who are yet living? Perhaps some public spirited person could start a public subscription to buy it with the city's help?

RISE IN PRICES

It is cheering to all of us who cater to household needs that at long last Canadian women are rousing themselves from their lethargic attitude towards these iniquitous rises of price.

In so doing they are following the example set by the women of France who, with one consent when the butchers tried to put inferior frozen meat on the market, abstained from buying any meat for a fortnight. The result was very effective.

Included in the protest should be the wrapping of meat in paper which makes inspection impossible and may land you—as many have found—a very undesirable cut. Refuse to buy a pig in a poke.

Regarding Mr. Carr's new dodge "less service" in milk delivery, it should be outlawed immediately; less service and less courtesy have been here with each new rise in price.

However, we must not lose sight of the fact that labor's demands have been exorbitant also, imposing untold hardship on the low fixed income groups.

Waiting For The Second Bang

By STEWART ALSOP, from Washington

A MAJOR mystery is deeply puzzling those officials whose first concern must be the comparative power positions of the United States and the Soviet Union. With every passing month the mystery deepens. It is this: Why have the Soviets not exploded a second atomic bomb?

The first Soviet atomic explosion occurred in September, 1949, a year and nine months ago. The intelligence reports leave no room for doubt that the Soviets under the ruthless direction of secret police chief Lavrenti Beria, are devoting a tremendous national effort to constructing a decisive atomic stockpile. Such a national investment obviously requires the most powerful possible bombs, and to construct the most powerful bombs in turn requires numerous atomic tests.

For reasons explained in previous reports in this space, the explosion of a Soviet bomb under ordinary circumstances can be detected in this country in a matter of hours. Yet the Geiger counters and the seismographs have been still, and the air samples have yielded no significant traces. Why?

The intelligence experts would give a great deal for a sure answer to this question. There is no sure answer. Meanwhile, three possible answers, no one of which is considered really satisfactory, are being put forward.

One is obvious—that further Soviet atomic tests have indeed taken place, but that the Soviets, with their mania for secrecy, have so arranged these tests that our detecting apparatus cannot pick them up. This is technically possible. An atomic bomb exploded, for example, deep in a lead mine, could probably not be detected. But the reason this is a wholly unsatisfactory answer is very simple. This sort of test would not yield the scientific data which is the sole purpose of an atomic test.

The second answer is equally obvious and equally unsatisfactory. It is that the Soviets have not been able to make enough bombs to afford the use of even one more for testing. This is a tempting theory, particularly because at first glance it seems to be supported by reliable reports that the frantic efforts to extract uranium from the captive Czech and German mines has suddenly slackened off in the last few months.

Unfortunately, this slackening is explained by reliable reports that new and far richer Soviet sources of uranium have now been found, especially in Turkmenistan, where rich uranium deposits have been known to exist since the early 1920s. Moreover, the hard fact is that atomic bombs cannot be assembled one by one in a laboratory.

To make even one bomb requires a great industrial installation. And once an installation capable of turning out one bomb is in operation, it is automatically capable of turning out more bombs, provided the uranium raw material is available.

The theory which is in fact favored is that Soviet atomic production has in effect been frozen. The physicists, it is reasoned, may well have assured Beria and his colleagues on the Politburo that the bomb exploded in 1949 was satisfactory in all respects. And indeed, the evidence available after the 1949 test indicated that this was probably a somewhat more powerful bomb than the Hiroshima-Nagasaki model.

It is further reasoned that the Kremlin may then have decided to forego any immediate attempts to improve the Soviet model, and ordered all efforts concentrated on providing the largest possible stockpile in the shortest possible time. Only after a stockpile of a predetermined size had been built would the Kremlin permit the investment of the uranium, time and bombs which atomic testing requires.

If this theory is correct, the explosion of the second Soviet atomic bomb can be taken as a signal that the Soviets have a stockpile which they consider adequate for their purposes.

Portugal Election

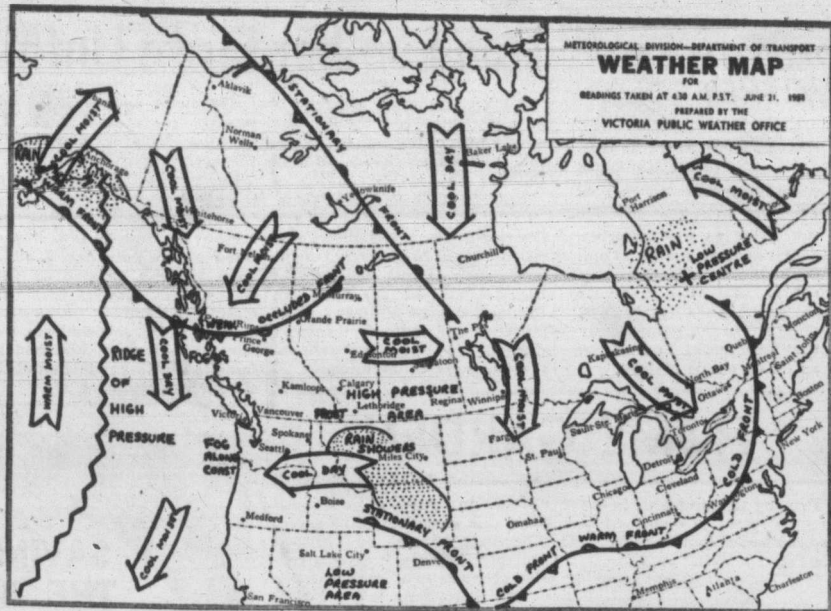

LISBON (Reuters) — A new president of Portugal, to succeed the late Oscar Carmona, will be elected July 22, the government announced Wednesday. Carmona died last month after five years in office. Government party candidate is Gen. Francisco Craveiro Lopes. He will be challenged by Dr. Ruy Luis Gomez, Democratic national movement candidate.

Famed Musicians Fooled By Reds

LONDON (Reuters) — Sir Adrian Boult, eminent conductor who became president of the Musicians' Organization for Peace and then found he was front-page news in the Communist Daily Worker, was taken ill in his office Wednesday.

And Canadian band leader Robert Farnon, formerly of Toronto, listed by The Worker as a vice-president of the organization, claimed his name had been used without consent, the Daily Express says today. Conservative newspapers described Boult, Farnon and other musicians who joined as "Simple Simons."

Indian Suit Gets Setback

OTTAWA (CP)—The government had the Six Nations Indians virtually pinned against a legal wall today in a million-dollar lawsuit against the Crown.

It moved in on a three-day Exchequer Court of Canada hearing with an affidavit signed by Citizenship Minister Harris, requesting Mr. Justice J. C. A. Cameron to reject 25 documents, which counsel for the Indians wanted to file as exhibits.

Mr. Harris, in his affidavit, said it would be contrary to public interest to have the contents of those documents made public.

DELICIOUS STRAWBERRY JAM IN 15 MINUTES

from the time your fruit is prepared.

Compare These Two Methods —

WITH CERTO

1. Mrs. A. makes jam the short-boil way with CERTO. She has 2 pounds of fruit prepared, ready to start at 9 o'clock.

2. The dotted line shows level of the prepared fruit in Mrs. A's saucepan.

3. Mrs. A. adds 3 pounds of sugar. A pound of jam made with CERTO contains no more sugar than a pound made the old, long-boil way.

4. Mrs. A. brings the mixture to a full rolling boil; boils hard ONE MINUTE only; removes from stove and adds ½ bottle (4 ozs.) Certo. CERTO is the natural jelling substance in fruit in concentrated form.

5. Mrs. A. is able to pour and paraffin about 5 pounds (10 glasses) of jam from her 2 pounds of fruit. She gets sure results because she follows the CERTO recipe EXACTLY.

6. Mrs. A.'s 10 glasses of jam were made in just 15 minutes.

THE OLD WAY

1. Mrs. B. makes jam the old-fashioned long-boil way. She, too, is ready to start her jam making at 9 o'clock.

2. Mrs. B. starts off with the same amount of prepared fruit in her saucepan.

3. Mrs. B. uses the old "pound of sugar per pound of fruit" standard recipe. So she adds 2 pounds of sugar.

4. Mrs. B. boils the mixture about 30 minutes before the jam thickens to the desired consistency. This evaporates about ½ the weight of the fruit, darkens the color and carries off much of the natural fresh-fruit flavor in steam.

5. Mrs. B. pours and paraffins about 3 pounds (6 glasses) of jam from the same amount of fruit. Until it is finished she cannot tell for sure how well her jam will turn out.

6. Mrs. B. took 45 minutes to make her 6 glasses of jam.

Certo gave Mrs. A. sure results... much more jam... saved time, work and money.

Cadillac

Its Great Name is Free!

Standard equipment, accessories and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice.

If there were some way to strip a Cadillac of every identifying emblem it possesses, and judge it solely by the way it rides and handles and performs—it would still be quickly recognizable as the "Standard of the World."

But think what a Cadillac brings you in addition to the solid value of its engineering and performance and comfort and handling ease—the wonderful Cadillac name!

Perhaps in all the world, there is no inanimate object which speaks so eloquently as the Cadillac shield. It talks of background, of progress, and of faultless workmanship.

It proclaims a promise of years and years of the utmost motoring satisfaction? It speaks of its owner, and identifies him as a man of accomplishment and discrimination.

In fact, there is nothing good and wonderful a motor car can bring that isn't promised or implied by the beautiful Cadillac shield. And it speaks a universal language, which is understood and appreciated the wide world over.

And remember, you pay nothing extra for the pride and pleasure of having this great and distinguished name. They come as a "special dividend" with every Cadillac car.

POLICE GOT MAN EASY WAY

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—When police stopped a 12-year-old boy yesterday and he declared "I didn't do it," they knew they had their man. "Didn't do what?" one asked. "Didn't set them cars on fire," replied the boy. Under questioning, the boy admitted setting a horse van and a car on fire "just for plain meanness."

Refugees Ripe For Hitler Type Of Leader, Ruhr Industrialists Claim

By BRACK CURRY

ESSEN (AP)—Many Ruhr industrial chiefs believe Nazism is headed for a strong political comeback in Germany. They predict that by 1953 a new Nazi party will be a major political force.

The reason: Western Germany's 10,000,000 embittered refugees look like ready bait for Nazi preachings.

Ruhr leaders say this restless mass already is pushing Germany toward the political right just as millions of unemployed helped open the door to power for Hitler in 1933.

The difference now is that Germany's post-war dispossessed want their old homes back instead of jobs.

The refugees fled or were expelled from their homes in territories taken over by Poland, Russia and Czechoslovakia after the Second World War.

The new neo-Nazi party, called the Socialist Reich Party, campaigned in a recent state election on a promise to "restore the many good features of Nazism."

Led by former Hitler loyalists, it grabbed 11 per cent of the votes and was in fourth place in a 10-party field. Its leaders already have announced plans to spread their power into other states.

Ruhr leaders call this party a "great danger"—but they say another neo-Nazi group is bound to replace it if the federal government carries out a threat to ban it.

One prominent industrialist told correspondents:

"The refugees are slowly going mad. You just put a general on a job as a night watchman and see how long before he goes mad. The refugees feel their only hope of regaining their old homes is through an aggressive Germany ruled by tough people like the Nazis."

Old-Age Pension Debate Is Seen

A long debate on the universal old-age pension scheme is anticipated by Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew when the House of Commons holds its fall session.

Debate on the principle of the plan could be completed in short order, but there was bound to be differences of opinion on how the money for the pensions will be collected, Mr. Mayhew said, although he could see no difficulty in starting the universal pension scheme January 1.

DRUG TO EASE MOTHER SOLD

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP).—Roland Joe Fitch, 28-year-old former convict, was jailed here Wednesday on charges of selling morphine to a doctor prescribed to his suffering, cancer-stricken mother, Capt. Walt Acord, police narcotics officer, said Fitch made six sales during the last 10 days, all from the morphine supply that was meant to ease the suffering of his mother.

Dub Lumber Firms Unfair

All Victoria labor unions will be asked to boycott the building supply firm of Stewart & Hudson Ltd., and its subsidiary firm of Builders Sash & Door Ltd.

Both the Victoria Labor Council (C.C.L.) and the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (T.L.C.) Wednesday night took action against the firms at the request of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and other transport workers and the International Woodworkers of America.

The firms were charged with paying substandard wages and working employees longer hours than competitive firms.

Roy Whittle, business agent for the I.W.A., told the council meeting that in recent negotiations Stewart & Hudson Ltd. had offered a top base pay $1.18 an hour, while a competitive firm was "already paying $1.22" and most retail lumber yards were paying $1.29. He said, too, that Stewart & Hudson Ltd. had refused to consider reduction of the 48-hour week.

HOME GARDEN

by Jack Beasly

Pruning tomato plants in order to grow them to one stem is a recommended practice for this district.

It is one of those things which is not compulsory, but with our short season of good "tomato weather" it guarantees a reasonable quantity of ripe fruits before the early frosts.

Allowed to grow naturally, the plants will give many branches, each of which will bear flower and fruits. A simple experiment of growing a branched plant and a single-stem plant side-by-side will prove that the latter produces larger fruit earlier in the season because of the smaller crop it carries.

Studying a tomato plant, we find that it grows to a single stem until the first flower head forms, at which time small growths will be noticed where each leaf joins the main stem (leaf axils).

Each of these growths will eventually become a branch, and therefore should be removed when single-stem training is being followed. Some gardeners pinch out the unwanted growths with the thumb and finger, while others remove them with a sharp knife as soon as they are visible. Either method may be used, but the important point is not to let them get too large because plant effort is being wasted. When in full growth, the plants will need checking about twice a week.

In most varieties a very strong secondary growing tip will start from the leaf axil nearest to the flower truss. If the gardener wishes to grow a two-branch plant this growth may be saved, otherwise it must be removed promptly because it attains considerable size in a few days.

The following very logical statement is made by Arthur J. Simons in the Vegetable Grower's Handbook: "...nick out the side shoots with a sterilized knife. Do not pinch out with finger and thumb if you smoke cigarettes; the tobacco plant is related to the tomato and nicotine on the fingers may transmit disease."

While smoking is forbidden in commercial tomato greenhouses many growers must have taken terrific chances in not seeing that only sterilized fingers touched the plants.

82-YEAR-OLD GETS THIRD DRAFT CALL

PALMETTO, Fla. (AP)—Samuel T. Sample, Wednesday, received notice for the third time from a draft board.

Sample is 82, wears eyeglasses, a hearing aid and has false teeth.

He received his first notice in June, 1950, when his name was forged to a draft card. A clerk promised it would be straightened out, but six weeks ago Sample got another order.

He talked to the same clerk.

That didn't stop yesterday's order.

U.S. Ship Strikers Turn Down Two New Offers

Stick To Original Demand For 40-Hour Week Which Continues Main Bone Of Contention

NEW YORK (AP)—Idle seamen have brushed aside two wage-increase offers to continue their original demand for a 40-hour week and send the American shipping tie-up into its sixth day.

After a joint negotiating session between shippers and C.I.O. unions broke up late Wednesday night, a union spokesman said the length of the work week at sea "is the main thing holding us up."

Wednesday's meetings conducted by federal mediators marked the first joint sessions between representatives of 40 east and gulf coast shippers and union officials since the work stoppage started last Friday at midnight.

The C.I.O. seamen involved are members of the powerful National Maritime Union and the smaller Marine Engineers Beneficial Association in east and gulf ports, and the American Radio Association on the west coast.

In New York, the unions Wednesday chalked up the following concessions from the shippers:

- A pay raise "equal to 8 per cent of base wages in effect Jan. 15, 1950."
- A 44-hour work week at sea, with continuance of the present 40-hour week in port. The present work week at sea is 48 hours.
- A 30-day contract extension to end the shipping tie-up.
- A two-year contract and not a three-year agreement as first proposed by the shippers.
- Three weeks' vacation with pay for a man employed continuously by one company. A paid two-week vacation for men in the industry for a year, but not employed by one company. These benefits were acceptable to the unions.

Publisher Warns Fear May Cloud Spiritual Value

LENNOXVILLE, Que. (CP)—It is the responsibility of the educated man everywhere to "keep our vision unclouded and keep unchanged our sense of what is right," Arthur Hays Sulzberger, publisher and president of the New York Times, said today.

In an address at Bishop's University convocation ceremonies, Mr. Sulzberger warned of primary fears which must be faced and conquered "by all of us."

Among such were fear of Russia, arming of Germany and fear of ourselves.

"How are we going to behave... as we grow stronger and sense our strength to keep our vision unclouded and keep unchanged our sense of what is right?" he asked.

He said people of the western world run the risk of putting too much emphasis on physical survival and not enough on possessing spiritual qualities which make physical survival worth while.

Urge Canada Run Nation's Capital

OTTAWA (CP)—Two B.C. members of the Commons suggested Wednesday Canada's capital should be run by a federal commission the same as Washington, D.C.

The proposal came from J. L. Gibson (Ind., Comox-Alberni) and George Cruickshank (L., Fraser Valley) as the House considered legislation dealing with federal grants to municipalities where there is a heavy concentration of government property.

Mr. Cruickshank said Ottawa belongs to Canada as a whole, and the government should put up the money to make it a beautiful capital and take over administration.

New Alaska Airfields

ANCHORAGE (UP)—The Civil Aeronautics Administration has approved construction of three new airfields in Alaska, Alaska aviation director Tony Schwamm said today.

TWISTER LIFTS THREE PERSONS 50 FEET AWAY

TORONTO (CP)—A small "twister" picked up two men and a child and carried them 50 feet, Wednesday night, at the nearby community of Hornby.

Lloyd W. Wood, 54-year-old farmer; his daughter, Bonnie, five, and Frank Campbell, a neighbor, landed in a field. They suffered minor injuries.

Wood and Campbell dragged the child into the shelter of a culvert.

"If we hadn't crawled into that culvert, we would have been killed," said Wood. As he huddled in the culvert, Wood saw his barn and a shed picked up and carried 300 yards.

"There is no honey in honey-suckles."

Barrie New Victoria T.L.C. Head

Robert Barrie, delegate from the Chemical and Explosive Workers' Union, James Island, today was new president of the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (T.L.C.-A.F.L.).

Barrie, who has served as council vice-president since January, was named Wednesday night to succeed Charles A. Peck.

Tom Gooderham, representing the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' Union, was the unanimous choice for vice-president.

Resignation of Peck as president followed disaffiliation by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Portland May Buy Franchise

By BILL WALKER

Possibility of the controlling interest in the Victoria Baseball and Athletic Company passing into the hands of the Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast League loomed today, it was learned from a usually reliable source.

In commenting on the report general manager Reg Patterson of the A's said: "Though no such proposal has been made to Portland I am sure the Beavers would be interested if such an offer was made."

"It is impossible to go on the way we have been going," Patterson continued. "The financial situation is far more serious than most people realize."

Asked if there was any possibility of the A's folding up during the current season, Patterson replied: "If we don't draw better, I would say 'yes'."

Patterson was referring to the fact that the A's are down 14,000 in attendance so far this season in 32 home games. Only 300 attended Wednesday afternoon's game.

He said for the club to break even on the season—the company lost $22,000 last year—the attendance would have to reach 90-100,000 for the year.

At the present rate the A's figure to draw no more than 75,000 in their 72 home games. "This will not be enough," Patterson said.

Directors of the baseball company will hold a meeting Friday at which time the situation will be aired.

Club president Johnny Johnson today declined comment.

Views Of Sport

By RED SMITH

NEW YORK—The way it happened was like this. About three years ago there was a party in Augusta, Ga., during the Masters' Golf Tournament and Jimmy Demaret was singing and telling stories and making sure guys were enjoying themselves. Jimmy Johnson, who loves golfers and trotting horses and show horses and people, remarked that for ten or fifteen years there hadn't been a gathering of the clan worth remembering which Jimmy Demaret's charm hadn't brightened.

"So why don't we toss a party for him some time?" Mr. Johnson said. "Lord knows, he's given us more than our share of fun. There couldn't be any answer except, 'why not?' of course. And so it was ordained. But that year Demaret's working schedule didn't allow for a satisfactory date in New York, and the next year Jimmy Johnson was sick in a Washington hospital, and it wasn't until this month that the party managed to come off. When it did, a great many other things came off with it, including the top of some skulls.

There were probably 200 guys in Toots Shor's, each of whom paid $25 to say hello and also going to Jimmy Demaret. It may seem a strange thing to say, but the wonderful thing was that Jimmy hadn't won anything lately. He's been going around the professional golf circuit and he hasn't been able to beat a rug.

A Party—For A Nice Guy

If he were a winner or a champion, the party wouldn't have been worth mentioning. There are always dinners for winners; there are always parties for champions. People are eager to salute the top guy, no matter whether he's a nice guy or a heel. But this was a party tossed for Demaret, the guy, not the winner. Not the champion. This was a gathering of his friends who wanted to be there and get up $25 a piece to be there just because they are fond of the fellow. In that respect and for that reason, it was one of the most delightful parties flung in this town in many years.

It was curious—and also a tribute to the guy—what a widely mixed crowd attended. There were golfers, of course, as they figured to be. There was a whole raft of players of the St. Louis Cardinals—Red Schoendienst, Stan Musial, Joe Caragola, Howard Pollet, Marty Marion. They'd lost a tough one to Brooklyn just before the party, and Marion was telling about it. He went through the key plays pitch by pitch.

What Manager Doesn't?

"I remember 'em all," he said, grinning a little ruefully. "I can give you every game we've been in this year, play by play." "Of course you can," a newspaper man said, "because you're a manager now and you take those games home with you and sleep with 'em." "I'll bet you didn't do that when you were just a shortstop."

"We're better," Marion said. "We got a pretty good shortstop when we got Stan Rojek. When we got Bill Johnson we got the first good defensive third baseman we've had in years."

"The first Cardinals ever had in your time," a newspaper guy said. "Who was the best you ever played with? Kurowski, right? And he was strictly a hitter. He fielded 'em with his chest."

"That's right," Marion said. "Well, we've improved our infield defense and we've got great pitching help from Poholski, Presko and Staley. Defensively, we're not bad. But we haven't got enough power. When Musial doesn't hit, we're in trouble."

That's How It Is With Musial

"But when Musial does hit," a guy said, "I'll tell you how it is." And he told this story:

A couple of years ago a guy in this town took his wife to a night game at the Polo Grounds. Both the guy and his wife are devoted Cardinals fans. They sat in a box right behind the Cardinals' dugout, where they could hear the players talking. It was a lovely, soft night, with a big yellow moon over the rightfield stands.

That night Musial hit two home runs smack-dab into the face of that moon. It was a beautiful thing to see him uncork like a snake and strike and to see the little white pill rise and recede, a diminishing speck against the velvet blackness. When he hit the second one, the guy's wife clasped her hands and just crooned with joy.

"Look at that," she said. "And here I sit watching. I am the luckiest girl in the world."

That's how it is with Musial is hitting.

Rainiers Add To Lead

It's too bad baseball players don't get paid overtime. Sacramento and Los Angeles battled hammer and tongs for 13 innings last night in Pacific Coast Baseball League play. And it looked as though nobody was going to get any sleep.

Then, in the 14th, a wild throw by Gene Baker enabled Joe Marty to score from third with the winning run, and Sacramento defeated Los Angeles 4-3 for the Solons' second straight victory.

Seattle Rainiers, who almost need a telescope to find the cellar San Francisco Seals, got them smack in the centre of their baseball sights and blasted them 5-0. Rainiers, perched on top of the P.C.L. standings, took the top-sided win at San Francisco in the opener of a delayed series. Elsewhere, an eighth-inning triple by Chuck Stevens supplied Hollywood Stars with a 4-3 triumph over Portland, while Oakland came from behind to score five runs in the eighth to eke out a 5-4 win over San Diego.

Scores follow:

Seattle 5, San Francisco 0. B. H. E. 000 101 003-5 9 9

Weekly Mat Bill Switched To Saturday

Starting this week wrestling promoter Rocky Brooks is going to switch his popular weekly mat shows to Saturday night.

An excellent five-bout card, starting at 8.30, is on tap for this week. In the preliminary bout Brooks will match one of his local grapplers against an unnamed opponent from Montreal. The local boy will probably be Tyke Myren or Lionel Speller, who tangled in a pier D brawl last week.

A double main event will bring two popular boys and two newcomers together. Dan Plechas, whom the local fans love to hate, will meet Kay Bell.

HANDSOME BLOKE

Bell was a stand-in for Victor Mature in the picture "Samson and Delilah." His good looks usually attract a large feminine following.

Bob Geigel, former all-American grid star, will trade holds with Hans Schnable in the second half of the main feature.

In the semi-windup, Australian Frank Murphy, who pleased the crowd in his first appearance here, is slated to meet Bud Ruttle.

The fifth bout of the evening is the always popular tag team match. The winners in the double main event will team up against the losers of the same fight.

As usual, all service personnel will be admitted to ringside at a reduced rate.

Favorite Wins Camosun Club Tennis Match

Mrs. Norah Finlayson met and overcame the toughest opposition she has found in her bid for the ladies' singles title at the Camosun Tennis Club on Wednesday evening. Gerry Dobbin took her to three sets before giving way 6-3, 5-7, 7-5.

The mixed doubles team of Mary Wall and Al Anderson continued their winning ways defeating Mrs. Pridaux and Stan Rowbottom while Miss Jasper and Toad Garnet eliminated Miss Edwards and W. Mahon.

Tonight's draw follows:

6.30—Miss Gray and G. Anderson vs. Miss Reid and G. Harvey; Miss Wall and A. Anderson vs. M. Johnson and Al. Lyle; Val Speed vs. Joyce Heritage.

7.30—Miss Clague vs. Miss Grant; Mrs. Finlayson and G. Gaunt vs. Val Speed and B. O'Connell.

8.30—Miss Gray and G. Anderson vs. Miss Reid and G. Harvey; Miss Wall and A. Anderson vs. M. Johnson and Al. Lyle; Val Speed vs. Joyce Heritage.

A'S LOSE AGAIN

This Time Salem Takes Longer

This defeat—yes, the A's lost yet another ball game Wednesday afternoon, Salem Senators grabbing a 4-2 decision—was just the same as any other loss, except that this time the A's hung on until the 11th inning.

That's when Dick Faber singled, Richie Myers singled, Pete Tedeschi singled and Dick Bartle flied to left field. That combination of events, plus an error by Don Pries at second, gave Salem the two tie-breaking runs.

Up until then the game had been a pitcher's battle between Victoria's Ron Smith and Salem's Ray McNulty.

MYERS HOMERS

Salem got the jump in the sixth inning when Faber singled with two out and Myers hit a home run, chasing in Faber ahead of him.

Held to two hits for six innings, the A's manager got to McNulty for their first run in the seventh. Marvin Dierks doubled to open the frame and moved up to third on Hal Jackson's single. An outfield fly by Bob Sturgeon scored Dierks, but that was the best the A's could muster.

MARTIN RETURNS

Irate at what he thought was a bad strike call by umpire George Behringer, catcher Milt Martin proved his temporary right to Lillo Mareucci's place by thumping one out of the park in the eighth to tie the score. And that's the way it remained until the 11th.

The A's had their chances in both the 10th and 11th, but left two runners stranded in each inning as McNulty showed an adeptness for pitching himself out of trouble. It was McNulty's seventh win against five defeats.

The A's close out their present home stand (one win, six defeats) against Salem tonight, with Jim Hedgcock shooting for his seventh victory of the season.

Cowichan Derby Plans Announced

With a $1,000 worth of prizes at stake, Cowichan Bay Salmon Club officials are preparing things for the launching of their annual salmon ladder derby in the up-island bay from July 15 to September 8.

One hundred of the anglers who enter the derby and weigh in the largest salmon will qualify to shoot for the September 15 fifteenth prize list, reports Victoria's Lee Hallberg, former club president.

DAILY PRIZES

During the course of the fish-fest a $5 prize will be awarded for the biggest fish registered each day Monday through Friday. There will be a $10 prize for the derbyist weighing in the biggest both on Saturdays and Sundays. In the final fish-off there will be awards totaling $350.

Biggest fish in the final will win the angler $150. Second prize is $100; third, $75, and fourth, $25. There's a $200 combination radio-phonograph as a consolation prize in the derby.

Some salmon are reported to be showing in the bay "but not enough yet to get excited about," reports Hallberg. He said a few were being caught in the narrows.

Shamrocks Go Solo Lose To Combines

Visitors Maintain Hex In Scoring Third Victory

Combine—meaning to bind together, as a union, for a common purpose—is a word, the plural of which was this year adopted by a Vancouver lacrosse team which has enjoyed singular success against the Shamrocks.

The Combines continued that ascendancy over the Shamrocks last night by playing as the well-drilled unit their pseudonym decrees.

And as a result they scored their second victory on Memorial Arena cement, their third triumph over the Rocks this year and they accomplished the feat handily 11-7.

The net result was that the Combines, who only Tuesday night had suffered their second defeat of the season at the hands of the horrendous Nanaimo Native Sons, moved back into third place in the Inter-city Lacrosse League meantime keeping the Rocks from lengthening their first-place margin.

It was evident from as early as the first period that the Rocks were in for a rough evening.

Notwithstanding the fact that coach Arnold Ferguson and Larry Booth had shot them into a two-goal lead, the Rocks appeared individualistic in comparison with the polished team play of their opponents and, before the period's end, were sharing goal honors at two apiece.

ROCKS LETHARGIC
Norm Baker gave the locals hope once more that perhaps they could weather a tendency to lag on defense when he beat Walt Lee at the 10-minute mark of the second period to provide a 3-2 edge.

But such was not to be the case. Bert Ticehurst slipped one by Buzz Long, who up until this time had been a brilliant replacement for Bill Andrews, to knot the count for the last time, and Jim Anderson, 16 seconds later, put the mainlanders ahead to stay at 4-3.

BEGINNING OF END
Their shortcomings far overshadowing their capabilities, the Rocks nevertheless managed to keep within one goal of the visitors until 9.09 of the third period when Ticehurst and Harry Buchanan broke away from a 6-5 Combine lead to up the count to 8-5.

Ferguson and Bob Monaghan had offset previous goals by Anderson and Bus Byford to keep within striking distance until Buchanan iced matters as things turned out.

The crowd got a lift when Baker broke away on a solo dash.

Other Wednesday night results and this evening's draw follow:

Men's doubles—Dunbar and Parker defeated Heseline and Mitchell, 6-4, 6-4.
Ladies' doubles—N. Dawson and N. Davis defeated Mrs. Roche and M. Ogil, 6-3, 9-7.

BARKING DOG LEADS LAW TO LOOT, YOUNG SUSPECTS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fido worked for the law yesterday. Detectives searching for $2,300 worth of firearms taken from a gunsmith's shop found the loot hidden near a bridge support.

Nearby a spotted mongrel pup growled and barked. Detectives investigated—and found three juveniles crouched behind the bushes.

A 17-year-old boy, was charged with breaking and entering the shop of Ian S. Dingwall, custom gunsmith. The others, 15 and 16 years old, were charged with retaining stolen property.

Found With Opium

NANAIMO — Mar Bak Hen, convicted Wednesday in police court for illegal possession of opium, was fined $400 and sentenced to one year in jail. In default of payment a further three months in jail will be added to his term. Wah Ah Doo, charged similarly, was being tried in police court today.

F. W. Woolworth opened his first five-and-ten-cent store in Utica, N.Y., in 1879, but it failed.

Would Let Cities Tax Government's Property

Lively Commons Debate As Bill To Increase Grants To Municipalities Laid Before House

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is increasing the grants it pays in lieu of taxes to centres with a concentration of federal property. But many Commons members, including some government supporters, think it isn't doing enough.

It obtained Commons approval Wednesday of a bill laying down a formula for the payment of the grants, but only after opposition members rolled up a three-hour debate in which they termed the formula "niggardly" and "passing out crumbs."

The legislation puts on a permanent basis the year-to-year arrangements for grants, and adds a small increase. Payments this year will be about $200,000 above the $1,578,000 distributed to municipalities across the country in 1950.

Debating the grants legislation, some members suggested that the government—whose property is exempt from municipal taxes—permit its buildings to be taxed on the same scale as ordinary property.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and Stanley Knowles (C.C.F.-Winnipeg North Centre), joined in suggesting the government reconsider the legislation and hold it over until the autumn session of parliament.

Finance Minister Abbott, piloting the bill, told questioners it does not cover Crown companies and other government-operated enterprises, such as the Canadian National Railways, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation and the National Harbours Board. They have authority to negotiate their own tax arrangements with municipalities.

David Croll (L.-Toronto-Spadina), Minister of Welfare for Ontario before he entered the Federal House, said the bill approached the problem "on an entirely the wrong principle," and suggested federal property get the same tax treatment as that of ordinary property holders.

The grants' measure was one of five bills adopted as the chamber made slow progress toward its summer adjournment, expected late next week. The other bills were comparatively minor.

At the House opening, Finance Minister Abbott told the chamber the government is not planning any immediate relaxation in consumer-credit restrictions, part of the government's general anti-inflation program.

Victor Quetch (S.C.-Acadia, Alta.), said the government "jumped the gun" by trying to control production of non-essential goods before defense production could take up the slack.

Tourist Travel Tops Last Year

May was another record month for tourist travel to B.C., the B.C. Government Travel Bureau reports.

In the 31-day period, 18,517 cars entered the province to bring the total for the year to 56,504. The five-month total is 7,746 higher than for the corresponding period of last year.

New Disease Hits U.S. Hogs

CHICAGO (AP)—A strange new disease for which no cure has yet been found has spread rapidly through many of the best hog-raising areas in the United States, the American Veterinary Medical Association said today.

The disease makes pigs sneeze and gives their faces a "dished in" look by causing certain facial bones to disintegrate.

The disease, infectious atrophic rhinitis, was almost unheard of several years ago. The A.V.M.A. said it now is becoming a serious menace to the swine industry.

2nd in a series to bring you the facts about your Hospital Insurance plan

Why was Hospital Insurance Started?

1. To relieve the people from paying large hospital bills.
2. To put the hospitals on a sound financial basis.
3. To help the overtaxed municipalities.

Let's look at the record—back to the years before Hospital Insurance. Towards the end of the war, and right afterwards, the rapid increase in the cost of running hospitals (due mainly to increased labor costs) made it necessary for the hospitals to raise their rates. In 1944, it cost an average of $4.88 for one day's stay in hospital. By 1948, this cost had risen to an average of $8.38 a day.

As a result, a great many people were unable to pay their bills. In many hospitals, one out of every three persons admitted could not pay his bill. In return, the hospitals could not collect enough money to pay their bills for fuel, supplies, etc. Many hospitals were losing so much money that they had to get immediate cash help, or close up.

The municipalities and the provincial government gave large cash grants to keep the hospitals open, but it was not a satisfactory arrangement. It was very costly and didn't help the people who couldn't afford to pay their hospital bills. A serious illness in a family was enough to wreck the finances of that family due to the large hospital bills. From all sides there were many strong demands for the provincial government to do something, and to do it quickly.

The action taken by the government to correct this situation was the start of Hospital Insurance on January 1st, 1949. The size of this huge undertaking was never overlooked, but the problems that had grown with the years could not be dealt with overnight.

While mistakes may have been made, they have been mistakes common to any large undertaking of this nature. Problems arose that had not been experienced anywhere else on this continent.

However, the net result of the plan is that the people of B.C. no longer need worry about staggering hospital bills for acute hospitalization which only three years ago could, and often did, cripple a family's finances. Now everyone has protection against large hospital bills, and the yearly premium for a family is less than 12¢ a day—less than one-third the price of a package of cigarettes.

The facts speak for themselves. Over 500,000 hospital bills have been paid on behalf of the people of B.C. This proves that the plan is fulfilling its original purpose of protecting the people from large hospital bills. Hospitals, on the other hand, are now in a position to operate on a sound financial basis and are steadily improving their buildings and equipment. The municipalities, in turn, have also benefited.

This, then, is why the Hospital Insurance Service was brought into effect in British Columbia. The article next week will deal with "Why were the premiums increased?"

Be sure to read these messages. They deal with your Hospital Insurance plan—a plan which has already paid over $40,000,000 for more than 500,000 hospital cases, and is providing benefits for thousands more each month.

BEDTIME STORY

by Thornton W. Burgess

Always in a mother's heart
Worry, plays a constant part.
—Mother Bear.

Mother Bear is apt to be cross. Mothers do get cross sometimes, you know. This is because mothers do so much worrying and no one does more worrying than does Mother Bear when she is away from her babies. No other mother in all the Green Forest has more cause for worry than does Mother Bear. No other mother has children more mischievous than Mother Bear's black imps. As long as Mother Bear can have the babies with her; or can be with them, she does little worrying. But she can't be with them all the time. She has to go looking for food.

So when the babies are too small to travel with her she has to leave them. Then she worries, worries, worries.

This morning Mother Bear had been delayed. When she finally got back to the tree in which she had left the imps they were not there. Now she was more worried than ever. It didn't take her long to find the scent left by the feet of those disobedient little imps. She followed that scent straight to Farmer Brown's sugar house.

She was suspicious. She knew all about that sugar house. It was man-made and she did not trust anything that man had had anything to do with.

There was no one in sight. Had she been a little earlier, there would have been plenty of noise, but now there wasn't a sound.

At once she began to sniff around the door and the cracks and at once she became more worried than ever. She not only got that sweet smell that had so excited the cubs, but she also got the smell of the little bears themselves.

How had they gotten in? She hurried around that house until she was back where she had started. She had found no place where the cubs could have entered. She tried to pull the door open and couldn't.

Looking up on the roof she saw a hole. In less time than it has taken to tell it, she was at that hole poking her head down inside. It wasn't very light inside, but there was enough for her to see what a mess things were in. It looked as if there had been a terrible fight that had knocked things about. She didn't see the cubs. She had been worried before, but now she was quite frantic. Had someone else been there and something dreadful happened to her precious ones?

Could that be a man coming to the sugar house? Mother Bear dug her big claws into the wood at the edge of that hole and began to tear it larger.

VICTORIAN SPRING

CXVI

He came round the corner of the table, and with one arm still leaning on it, reached over his shoulder as he stood behind her. And though she could not see his face for a moment's mercy, even now, to get away from his eyes again, she felt his gaze upon her neck . . . her shoulders . . .

She saw the hand that was resting on the table suddenly leave it, and still refusing to turn round to him, closed her eyes. She felt both his hands, now, coming over her shoulders and close over her small, firm breasts. He drew her back to him, his whole body pressed with a steady sureness against her.

His hands slipped slowly and tightly down from her breasts, feeling the contours of her waist . . . drawing back . . . meeting again on her thighs . . . pressing fiercely, so that the fingers seemed to sink deep into her flesh . . . drawing her whole body on to his own body.

She knew that she was deathly pale, now, and he must have felt her trembling. In a moment she managed to swing round and face him, noticing that his shirt was open now, down to the belt. She pushed both her hands against his naked chest and managed to break loose from him for a moment.

He was gazing at her, a little puzzled. "Too rough?" he asked, simply. "Is that it? Or just . . . not ready?"

She seized on the words and said quickly, "That's right, Jake. Not ready . . . not until . . ."

He took a step nearer to her. "Until what, my pretty?"

"Until I've asked you something, Jake. Will you do something for me?"

"Name it."

"A simple thing, Jake. Just write a letter."

"Now? You would pick on a time like this, wouldn't you? Not now. Later, sweetheart."

She glanced down at the shawl. It was still there. She looked hurriedly away from it.

"No. Not later."

She did not go near the table, but moved to the other side of the cabin, her eyes away from him. He was trying to be patient with her. "Why in God's name talk about letter-writing?"

"Because—if you want anything else, Jake—we've got to talk about it."

"So you set a price on it, eh? Not that you possibly ain't worth it. But some of you women sure have your own way of making a claim, all right."

He came closer, thrusting his face towards her. "What are you up to?"

She had found what her eyes had been frantically seeking on that side of the room—a dusty bit of paper. There was a bottle of ink and a pen with them. She tried with an air of calmness to put them down on the small table. She pulled one of the chairs up.

"I want you to write me a letter, Jake."

He did not move.

"There's something we've got to straighten out, Jake."

He sat in the chair, now, but deliberately turned it away from the table, opening his legs and

Govt. Guarantees Bonds Only At Maturity

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott told the Common Wednesday night that the federal government never has given assurance to any purchaser of its bonds that he would get 100 cents on the dollar at any period other than maturity.

"The government never gave any undertaking except that an orderly and stable market would be provided," he said.

Canada savings bonds could be cashed at any time for face value plus accrued interest while long-term government bonds varied according to market conditions.

Mr. Abbott was replying to opposition members who asked whether the government planned to support the price of its bonds.

"I've got to talk to you about Amy Hackett, Jake."

He stopped rocking the chair and came sharply forward.

"Go on," he said, and she knew, now, that he would listen to what she had to say.

"Before I explain about Amy . . . there's another woman we've got to talk about."

He was very still, now. Far too quiet for a man who had been drinking so long. Without a sound, other than his hard breathing, he reached slowly for the bottle again and poured some into his enamel mug.

She stood under the window, a patch of moonlight falling on her cheek. Then she started to speak again.

"I was on the stage of the Colonial Theatre in Victoria that night. I saw you shoot Sadie Ellishaw."

Being a slow starter has its advantages. It stops you from running off on the wrong track sometimes. It saved me from embarrassment the other night. Everybody at the banquet was standing in place, getting ready to sing. I'm not too sure that a banquet benefits from an "O Canada" prelude, but if they want to sing for their supper, I'll Tohr Tucker right along.

So I took in a big breath, too. But I haven't got what our music critic calls a bold approach. That should be left to men like Lance Whitaker, who have confidence, voice and knowledge of the words. My technique is to come in a little behind other people.

Then I can toss the grace notes around and chuckle to myself without anybody noticing.

THAT WAS MY plan at the banquet. But they didn't sing "O Canada." They slipped off into a musical blessing. And there stood I holding my breath. It was all for the best, though. An "O Canada" solo in the middle of a grace might have seemed a bit incongruous.

You can find an incident like that a little unsettling if you're used to taking your grace in a mumbled monotone. But even if you don't sing, you can appreciate the attractiveness of such invocations set to music, and you sometimes wonder why they don't make a universal practice of teaching The Lord's Prayer the same way. Those who can sing it—and probably most people could try if they were taught the tune in school—lend a certain impressiveness to the prayer.

One of my friends was most impressive with the musical version following the last Press Gallery function. He sang it and "Open the Door Richard" alternately in the corridor leading to the room where the government was in caucus. The caucus, in consequence, was one of the shortest of the session.

NOT MANY PEOPLE have an opportunity to exercise such talents in the corridor leading to a government caucus room, but almost everyone recites The Lord's Prayer. Mostly groups recite it badly. When they reach the lines "and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us," little can be heard, but a hissing—that or a sound like dancers shuffling their feet over floors sprinkled with sand.

For the sake of euphony, if for nothing else, the alternative "forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors" should be used. The latter form isn't quite so hard on a person's conscience, either. Nobody can escape trespassing against someone. A trespass is an invasion. Maybe it's the usurpation of time. Maybe it's an intrusion on property. Perhaps it's a violation of any of the privacies, material or non-material, which the individual wants to preserve.

With a debt, now, you can, at least seek a settlement. Many you can discharge outright. Some you can keep trying to pay off. And with all you can take some practical steps toward satisfaction.

YOU CAN'T SAY the same of trespasses. Once they're committed, they can't be undone. They're always a nagging irritation to the conscience. If there isn't any conscience, then there's not much use forgiving them. The perpetrators keep right on perpetrating, as long as they can get away with it. Why encourage that kind of person? There's a lot to be said for silent prayer, which overcomes the silliness of the unattractive line. But if it's not going to be silent, The Lord's Prayer could gain majesty from the singing of it. When soloists or choirs give that rendition the effect is stirring. It is something more than the stumbling, unnaturally hushed repetition of lines conned by rote and too frequently presented as such and nothing more. It's conceivable, of course, that The Lord's Prayer set to music and universally used in that form might be compounding a felony. There are voices that do little to help any composer.

UNESCO FEATURES for June tell the story of efforts being made to conquer illiteracy, noting incidentally, that half the population of the world does not know how to read or write. In one Mexican community teachers are now engaged in this primary task, not necessarily to enrich the intellectual lives of the people, but to help them in the basic necessities of staying alive.

"We teach literacy," says one of the organizers of the plan, "when we teach health or home economics or agriculture, but never as a separate, isolated subject. As far as we're concerned, it is no use to teach a man to read unless you can convince him it will help solve the problems of his daily life."

Literacy there apparently is a pretty functional project. Not for it are the gems of literature or the imaginative flights of poetry. But then, is that so different from the attitude held on this highly literate continent, where know-how so frequently seems more important than knowledge?

PIONEERS' REUNION STARTS; 400 ATTEND GANGES EVENT

GANGES—Almost 400 residents of Salt Spring, North and South Pender, Mayne, Saturna, Thetis and Kuper Islands, resident in the Gulf Islands prior to June 21, 1901, were guests today at the second annual Pioneers' Reunion sponsored by Gavin Mouat.

William Purvis, Eugene, Ore., traveled the farthest distance to reach the gathering. Veritable patriarchs of Salt Spring Island, Ernest Harrison, Joseph Akerman, and Harry Caldwell, all over 80, also attended the buffet luncheon at Harbour House Hotel.

Films were shown of last year's reunion, and at 3.30 all residents of the island attended the celebration for tea at the hotel grounds. Sidney Junior Band played for luncheon and tea.

Wide Search Continues For Elk Lake Bandit

A wide police search was continuing this afternoon for the young gunman who mauled and robbed Mrs. Huna Usher, 58-year-old proprietor of the Toby Jug tearoom at Elk Lake of $49 Wednesday morning.

The bandit, believed to be 21 or 22, after being served pie and milk by Mrs. Usher, turned up in the kitchen displaying what looked like a gun. He clamped a vicious headlock on her and forced her to tell him where the money was. After getting the money from Mrs. Usher's purse and the cash register, the thug locked her in a back room and fled in an old model car.

Saanich policemen, with other police forces of the area co-operating, spent the day and Wednesday night trying to track down the bandit.

Fred Bate, 3154 Davin Road, who saw the thief on his first visit to the Toby Jug, told police the get-away car was an old Essex or a car of similar square-type body with an aerial on the left side, its color originally green but now oxidized.

Police would not reveal if fingerprints found on the glass would be an aid in tracking down the thug. He is described as being five feet nine inches tall, thin-featured, high cheek bones, blue eyes, fair complexion, dressed in a dark blue shirt, a light-colored fedora hat with a wide brim and probably wearing airforce-type dark glasses.

Eaton's Open Remodelled 'Home' Store

T. Eaton Co. today opened its "House Furnishings Building," formerly the Arcade Building on View Street between Broad and Government, planned as the most advanced and complete home furnishings shopping centre in the Pacific Northwest.

Result of almost a year's work, carried on with business as usual, the job was finished at midnight Wednesday. Now in place of the old dance hall and offices devoted to furniture, china, rugs, draperies, electrical goods, all brought together for the first time in the remodelled building.

The building, completely protected by an automatic sprinkler system and with the newest type of lighting, has been arranged to permit the shopper to furnish his house from basement to attic without leaving the two top floors of the new store.

POWER FAILURE CAUSE GIVEN

Power failure Wednesday that left all but emergency institutions without electricity from 1.48 to 2.12 p.m. was attributed today by B.C. Power Commission officials to failure of two generators at Campbell River.

Jordan River plant of the B.C. Electric continued to provide sufficient power for vital services until a faulty relay in the Campbell River generators was repaired.

C. Of C. Group To Study Report

Duncan McBride, chairman of the Freight Rates Committee of Victoria Chamber of Commerce, said today it was the intention of his committee to conduct a study as soon as possible of the Turgeon freight rate report.

Fisheries Minister Robert Mayhew had suggested that Victoria visit to consider this report on business men would be well advised which they might want to make some applications on the legislation.

"We would like to have the opinions of various Victoria business men and industrialists," said Mr. McBride.

Anscomb Optimistic $40,000,000 Will Be Found In Eastern Marts

Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb has returned from a preliminary visit to Eastern markets optimistic that B.C. will be able to borrow at reasonable rates the approximate $40,000,000 needed for its development program this year.

Mr. Anscomb told the Victoria Daily Times today, prior to a conference with Premier Byron Johnson on his three weeks in Eastern Canada and the U.S., that he will return to the East around the middle of July.

"This was only a preliminary carter," the Finance Minister said. "There isn't a story yet. Nothing I can say right now. Are we going to get the money we need? I don't know, would do I?"

$19,000 Involved In Contract Suit

Purchaser Alleges Breach Committed In Sale Of Oak Bay Land And Duplex

Specific damages are sought by Lillane Neomi Kilgour, 2339 Lincoln Avenue, in her breach of contract suit against A. W. B. Jones, contractor, 1958 Hampshire Road, which opened in Supreme Court before Mr. Justice A. D. MacFarlane today.

Mrs. Kilgour claimed that she agreed to pay a sum of $19,000 for land and a partly constructed duplex in Oak Bay from the defendant on the understanding that the contractor would complete the house. She alleges that after she had paid Jones $9,000 as part payment and assumed a mortgage of $10,000 on the property, the defendant refused to abide by the terms of the agreement.

Jones alleges the agreement is invalid as he did not receive the $9,000 on the date specified in the contract.

He also alleges that Mrs. Kilgour asked him to put in fixtures in the duplex which were not specified in the contract.

Lloyd McKenzie is acting for the plaintiff. H. W. Davey, K.C., is representing Jones.

City's Parking Meter Problems Are Discussed

Action on the city's parking meter problems likely will come about soon following a special meeting of the public works committee this afternoon to consider a report on meters by city manager C. C. Wyatt.

The report was made in March, but was being discussed today for the first time at the committee level.

It appeared doubtful, however, whether Mr. Wyatt's recommendations on how to establish adequate control and remedial measures of parking meter woes would be adopted as submitted.

Alderman Waldo Skillings, head of the transportation and traffic committee, sat in on the meeting.

He said before the meeting he would like to see Mr. Wyatt's recommendations approved in full.

Mr. Wyatt's report recommended:

1. A special constable be employed to patrol meter areas, issue warning of violations.

2. That meter deposits be collected in the evening to offset pilfering at night.

3. That collectors check each meter daily to overcome delays in repairing out-of-order meters, and to avoid the need to have such checks made on Sundays, as heretofore.

4. That employees in the parking meter section wear distinguishable uniforms.

The report pointed out that in order to increase the average daily "take" of the meters, now considered to be below what it should be (17 to 20 cents), employment of uniformed personnel at a cost not exceeding $5,500, probably would increase the "take" to 25 cents per day per meter, giving an additional gross revenue of $21,250.

S.I.U. To Take New Vote Firms Make Third Offer

Seafarers' International Union (A.F.L.) negotiators have agreed to take a new wage offer from three shipping lines back to the membership here and on the mainland for a vote, it was believed today, as a cloak of secrecy was thrown over the B.C. coastal ship dispute.

Should the new employer offer, the third given the union seamen, be rejected, a new strike deadline will be set, union sources disclosed.

The S.I.U. which had threatened to strike ships of the Canadian Pacific, Canadian National and Union Lines, Friday at midnight, withdrew their strike notice Wednesday night on the strength of the new offer.

However, officials of the three lines and the union were mum on details of the new offer.

Federal mediator George R. Currie said he was authorized to announce only that "strike notice by the Seafarers' International Union has been withdrawn as the result of a further offer by the companies concerned."

And nobody was saying anything more.

The union is asking a monthly increase of $30 above the basic deckhand pay of $153. It turned down, by referendum ballot, a company offer of $13.87. The strike deadline was set Monday night following more than four months of negotiating.

A day-long bargaining session called Wednesday by Mr. Currie broke up at night with the terse announcement that the deadline had been lifted.

A strike would be a hard blow at the tourist industry. It would virtually isolate Vancouver Island, as well as scores of up-coast settlements.

The last steamship strike started August 22 last year. Seamen won a $9 monthly increase after staying off the job ten days.

Meanwhile, in Ottawa, Labor Minister Gregg told the Commons today that "every effort" is being made to resolve the dispute. He said notice of a definite strike deadline has been cancelled and "negotiations are continuing."

He was replying to an inquiry made earlier by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes (P.C., Nanaimo).

Soldier Injured

Gunner Allan T. Creek, 19, of B Troop, 119 Battery, Gordon Head Camp, who suffered cuts and scratches when his motorcycle he was operating was in collision with a car at Johnson and Blanshard Streets Wednesday night, was reported in good condition today at H.M.C.S. Naden-Hospital. Robert B. Huntley, 619 Oliver Street, passenger in the car driven by Charles Pachal, Yorkton, Sask., was treated at Jubilee Hospital for a two-inch head cut, police said.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Don't Build Raft, Dad, I'm Buying One This Year!

By PENNY SAVER

You don't have to be a magician these days to have wonderful things come out of your pocket and you don't need to utter any weird sounding chants to transform them into articles that will entertain the family all year long.

For this is the age of inflatable toys, made especially for fathers who are tired of being used as truck horses, for mothers who are weary of tripping downstairs and for children who have been jabbed by a sharp or pointed edge just once too often.

Made from pinhole free plastic, these are playroom, backyard, beach and camp toys for every youngster and rafts and miniature boats for the older members of the family. Rafts sell at $3.95; bathtub boats $2.98 to $9.95. A wading pool that would rival any moderately sized pond is $7.95.

Other toys are a beach ball for $1.49, sea serpent you can sit on and float around the lake for $1.98. They are feather-weight and so compact they can be carried in a suitcase or the trunk of an automobile.

Other seaside accessories are sail boats, toy fishing boats, even tramp steamers. They start at 10 pennies. Really glorified toy sail boats sell at $3.75.

If junior feels like panning for gold at the beach or lake you can buy him just the right toy for this with a shovel to match. Will cost you 49 cents.

Frills and flounces and pastel shades for your nursery. Sounds charming you say, shaking your head dolefully, but who has time, especially with that bouncing bundle of energy who has just arrived.

What you mothers should know is that at no extra work and no additional expense you can have a magazine picture nursery by using color-fast and satin-soft plastic drapery by the yard.

Figured plastics 36 inches wide, sun and heat resistant, sell at 59 cents a yard. For drapes, bedspreads and slipcovers, in floral chintz you only have to pay $1.25 a yard for 31-inch and $2.25 for 36-inch.

Plastic, suitable for any room, costs 38 cents plain, 59 cents printed and $1.69 quilted.

If you haven't a sewing machine or the time to make curtains you can buy cottage sets all ready for you to put up for $3.45.

Beat with milk... use for French toast. Use for 1 or 2 egg yolks.

MARY HAWORTH

Philanderer And Poor Provider Destroyed Wife's Regard; She Wants Freedom

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Almost nine years ago Jim and I married, after six years of "off again, on again" courtship. We have two darling children, a son and daughter, ages five and two years, respectively. But we've had so much trouble, over women and Jim's job instability, that I no longer have any feeling for him. We have separate rooms and he has no more love for me than I have for him, but he still wants me physically, whereas I can't stand lovemaking on such terms.

During the war years, while stationed on the coast, Jim met a girl in a hotel. She was a year older than I was and continued to see her, even after I moved there. I learned this later, after he shipped out, and it left me feeling lost. I soon became lonely by going out socially as much as possible. And after some thought of ending the marriage when he came home, I finally decided our trouble was war-nerves and that we should try again.

Jim came home in 1945, our son was born the following year, and in a few months Jim was involved with a second girl. He returned to his mother, came back to me (at my request), then kept up the affair for three years, during which time the girl called me occasionally, to vilify me and demand Jim's freedom. In the end, Jim gave her a brutal beating and never dated her again; and when I offered him a divorce he refused, saying he knew he'd made a mistake but the girl was tenacious. Thus began our second attempt to build a marriage.

strong convictions—or call them ideals—concerning what that relationship should be. And it appears that these concepts have been almost your only support, or source of backing and strength, in trying to achieve teamwork with a psychopathic partner. There is nothing wrong with this approach to marriage, provided the ideals coincide, potentially, with the capacity of the persons involved; but in your case, Jim's incapacities have been so frustrating as to break your spirit.

Look at the record, Jim had a first affair almost simultaneously with the honeymoon. He had a second affair during your son's infancy. And he lost his job to lapse into a season of total irresponsibility while you bore the second child. Now you worry that a separation, long overdue, might penalize you most of all, by depriving you of a home with the children. Unconsciously you've been weighing fear of the world against the wistful hope that Jim might reform, thus passively avoiding a positive move, and tacitly refusing to shoulder responsibility for what happens next.

WIFE'S RELIGION DENIES DIVORCE

In 1949 our daughter was born, a relative found an apartment for us—we'd been living in one room, sharing a kitchen and bath—and Jim lost his good job, due to arrogance and irregular hours. The girl had been pestering him at his place of work. He was out of work for 16 months and we had to go on public relief until he found other employment. These experiences and my husband's reaction to them have killed any faith or confidence I had in him. I want to leave him but have no other home for the children. He says I may go, but may not take the children.

Is there any way I can get a separation from Jim, without giving up my apartment? My religion prohibits divorce; but I cannot abide the prospect of living this way indefinitely, until the children are grown. And I cannot drive myself to try to "pick up the pieces" again.

Glasgow Visitor Finds 'Victoria Lovely Place'

Victoria would gain another happy resident if she were a few years' younger and not so thoroughly settled in Glasgow. Mrs. Robert Faulds, holidaying here from Scotland this summer, said today at the home of her sister, Mrs. Agnes Campbell, 1515 Pearl Street.

"It is a lovely place—things seem so much freer over here," said Mrs. Faulds, who, accompanied by her nine-year-old grandson, Robert Faulds, came here in May and will leave again in August.

Auxiliary to Sponsor Home Cooking Stall

Women's Auxiliary to United Commercial Travelers will hold a home cooking stall in the Pacific Market Saturday. The stall will open at 8 a.m. Mrs. W. Chisholm is convenor, assisted by Mesdames L. Neeley, H. Roy and L. Hobbs.

"L.A. Britannia Branch, No. 7, Canadian Legion, social tonight at 8; games, refreshments.

She and her sister have not seen one another in 40 years as she was in Australia when Mrs. Campbell left Scotland in 1912. The visit was also a reunion with a brother, Neil Shearer of Seattle, whom she saw recently for the first time in 42 years.

"I wouldn't mind staying here in Victoria a bit if I was younger," said Mrs. Faulds. "The wee boy wants to stay. He is going to Oaklands school here for the last few weeks of the term to get to know the children and school system."

"He loves it and wants me to write his parents to come over here to live."

Describing rationing conditions in Britain Mrs. Faulds said they were still not over the war yet. Sugar, tea, butter, margarine and meat are rationed, with eightpence a week the meat ration per person, she said.

"I'm getting stout here," laughed Mrs. Faulds on the quantity of food, all unrationed, available in Victoria.

She will visit her brother in Seattle in July before flying to Montreal to take a boat home August 15.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Elbows, Knees And Heels In The Open—Repair Them

Elbows and knees and heels give women a lot of beauty trouble. We are likely to forget about them during winter months but when summer comes around and toes and heels and knees and elbows come out in the open, that is a different matter.

The skin is rougher in these spots. Of course we should give them special care all year long. However here is some help. Use a brush and some good soapy suds on the elbows and heels. If the heels are very rough use a nail brush on them. After rinsing well massage a good oily cream into the heels and knees and elbows. Do this each night.

There are creams which are mildly bleaching. For the elbows cut a lemon in half and place one, elbow in each half, leaning on the table. You can rest as you bleach.

The neck is another area which is likely to become saw-toothed. Many women with fair faces have necks a shade or two darker. In this instance you will find the stimulation of a soft complexion brush and perhaps one of the circulation creams helpful. Also treat your neck to an oily cream each night or to one of the fine oils now available.

After a few weeks of this sort of reconditioning you will see great improvement but it cannot happen over night.

Many women make the mistake of ending makeup at the jawline rather than giving the neck the same treatment the face falls heir to. If you use a make-up base use it on your neck as well as on your face.

It is amazing how all of the small beauty rituals add up to a lovely whole. They can make 10 years' difference in how old you look if you will be faithful.

If you would like to go in for a little reconditioning at home send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for my leaflet, "Reconditioning at Home" No. 49. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

New Member—Aldyen Hamber chapter, I.O.D.E., welcomed Mrs. Mary Langton as a new member. Mrs. Esther Pitkethly presided. Mrs. Irene Fraser was named second vice-regent to replace Mrs. Eileen Medley, who has left the city temporarily. Mrs. J. L. Ford reported on national convention. Plans were made to sell rosebuds on Alexandria Rose Day, Saturday, at Empress Hotel. Miss Peggy McNeil, education secretary, was instructed to send a book as end-of-term prize to the adopted, school at Bear Lake. A sum was voted to the Victoria Municipal Film Fund. Mrs. Pitkethly named committee for penny sale to be held in conjunction with Navy League Chapter at end of November.

MONTEAL, June 21st—Thinking won't make it so... Beautiful movie star Joan Bennett thought all face creams were alike—thought her face was immaculately clean after she'd used her regular cleaning cream. Then she tried the "new test" and found that WOODBURY COLD CREAM floated out hidden dirt! Why is Woodbury so different? Because it has Penaten, a new "miracle" ingredient that actually penetrates deeper into your pores opening. Penaten lets Woodbury's wonderful cleaning oils go deeper to loosen every trace of grime and make-up! And, thanks to Penaten, Woodbury Cold Cream smooths your skin more effectively, too! Buy a jar today—23c, 45c, 75c and 115c.

No More Frowns For Me because of p-a-i-n-f-u-l corns! I've just made a new "foot friend" in BLUE-JAY Corn Plasters. What's that? It's the greatest scientific discovery in years to us people with unhappy feet! It's the most effective medication ever invented for corns and calluses! Took ten years of scientific research by the Blue-Jay folks to perfect Phenylum... and now it's effective in 95% of the cases tested! So, if corns or calluses have been making you feel like growing at everyone... just buy "Blue-Jay" Corn Plasters with Phenylum and end your troubles!

At Less Than Half Price... Hi—Breakfast Ready? No sooner said than done! U.S.A. K.E. MUFFETS are on the table! There's no preparation. Just put the package out and let the family help themselves. Not only are these crispy, toasted, golden brown biscuits good to eat, but they're good for you, too! U.S.A. K.E. MUFFETS are the best breakfast you can get. Whole Wheat—yet the bran and valuable, wheat germ are there with the body-building proteins, minerals and energy-giving qualities the whole grain has. A breakfast that's really different, try them with fruit and milk or cream—you'll be back for more and more! Right at this moment I'm adding Quaker Muffets to my shopping list—how about you?

You Know and I know, too... that we women can keep a secret. For instance, does your husband know how grey your hair is? Not when you keep it a secret with wonderful NESTLE COLORINT! Nestle Colorint is not a dye—it's safer, easier to use than a dye. Lasts through three shampoos, yet washes out when you want it to. And it hides grey hair completely—with beautiful, youthful color. Whether you're blonde, brunette or red-head, there's just the right shade of Nestle for you... 10¢. Nestle Colorint is a beauty of your hair. It rinses in—shampoos out... 6 rinses—just 39¢.

A Bathing Beauty... and once you've taken a refreshing bath or shower with a velvet-soft C-I-L SPONGE, I just know you'll agree it's so smooth and gentle to the skin—and, even more, it adds beauty to your bathroom room—for now you can get C-I-L Cellulose Sponges in COLOUR—to blend with your bathroom accessories and add a touch of glamour to little cost! Blue—Coral—Yellow—Green... you'll love them! Everyone in the family can have a "personalized" bath sponge from baby to grandpa! And, remember—C-I-L Sponges are built to hold 20 times their weight in water—and they're long-lasting. Ask for C-I-L Cellulose Sponges at department, drug, variety, grocery and hardware stores.

It's Something To Be Proud Of! ... your "Treasure Trove" of home-made jams 'n' jellies. No matter what your favourite is—strawberry, raspberry, grape, plum, cherry—jams and jellies have a deeper, more satisfying appeal when you make them yourself. With CERTO FRUIT PECTIN at hand, along with my favourite fruits and sugar, it's so easy to have wonderfully pure results every time! I simply follow the easy directions on the booklet under the label of each Certo bottle and do my jams and jellies in about one-third of the time of the long boil method. I actually find with Certo that I get up to 20% more jam or jelly from the same amount of fruit.

They Won't Pick An Orange... until the juice is tested on the tree! That's how particular the Birds Eye people are about their quick-frozen Orange Juice. It's no wonder Birds Eye tastes better! Only sun-ripened oranges are used... when the juice has just the right balance of sweet and tart, the oranges are immediately harvested. Then, right quickly, they're sorted, washed, squeezed and the juice quick-frozen before an ounce of orchard-fresh flavour or vitamin goodness is lost. I'm sure you'll agree that BIRDS EYE Orange Juice is the best you ever tasted... and you'll find that it costs less than you'd pay for the oranges!

All "Dressed Up" For Gala Occasions... ready-to-serve at a formal dinner, it's quick-quick to make! B.L.B. BONNET MARGARINE in the Yellow Quik bag looks as good as it tastes! All you do is press the colour out on the Yellow Quik bag and knead the bag gently. In just two minutes your Blue Bonnet is a golden, luscious-looking yellow—ready to serve. It's so easy... no dirty mixing bowls to wash—no fuss—no bother at all. I love Blue Bonnet's country-fresh flavour in my cooking (baking, pan frying, searing vegetables). And another thing I like about it: it's so close to the real thing. Yes, I get so much for so little when I buy Blue Bonnet—I find I can buy extra milk with the money it saves me!

Are You "Scrimping Along" from pay-day to pay-day? It's no life for a woman, is it? So many of my friends have been doing just that since the cost of living got so high—high mighty. Now, with Personal Planning, the BANK OF MONTREAL's wonderful, down-to-earth system of handling your money, most women can say "goodbye" to unpleasant scrimping. Several of my friends have already proved that Personal Planning their income helps it overtake rising prices and increased taxes... and even leave a bit over for saving. NEARLY $550 RAISED

St. John Brigade Party To Aid C.D. Training Here

Proposed training of 200 citizens weekly for any civil defence emergencies will be aided by close to $550 raised at St. John Ambulance Brigade (Nursing Division) annual garden party Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Clarence Wallace opened the tea which was held in the gardens of the home of Mrs. C. F. Armstrong and Mrs. M. F. Driscoll, 1630 York Place.

"There is little I can say about St. John's that you don't already know," said Mrs. Wallace as she expressed pleasure at being present.

Discussing work of the brigade, Mrs. G. R. Mason, ambulance officer, Oak Bay Division and general convener of the tea, stated: "Leonard Hatcher, the regional civil defence controller, has asked St. John's to train 200 citizens a week from school children on up."

She said it was proposed to have classes twice weekly for six-week courses. As soon as 200 had been trained 200 more would begin, so that eventually all Victorians would be prepared for civil defence, Mrs. Mason said.

Wednesday the sun shone brightly as more than 300 guests wandered down pathways, halted by pretty stalls and enjoyed tea on the lawns.

Nursing Home Auxiliary Realizes $300 At Fete

A perfect early summer's day added to the gaiety of one of this season's most successful garden parties when Victoria Nursing Home Auxiliary held their annual garden fete in the spacious grounds of the Gorge Road home, Wednesday afternoon.

The sum of $300 was realized. It will be donated for the proposed 100-bed addition to the home. The affair was declared open by Mrs. A. D. Turnbull.

Receiving the hundreds of guests were Alderman Margaret Christie and Mrs. C. C. Warren. During the afternoon tea was served at individual tables set on the rolling lawns, and the skirl of the pipes was heard as piper Ray Gandy offered selections for Adeline Duncan dancers.

The outdoor scene was brightened with colorful flags strung throughout the gardens and various stalls set with displays of handicrafts made by ex-patients of the home.

In charge of stalls were Mesdames G. Harwood, R. Vickers, J. L. Gayton, take-home-supper; Mesdames C. E. Coleman and L. K. Morrison, ice cream; Mrs. C. Dodgson, candy; Mrs. George McAdams, contest; Mrs. A. H. Parks, flowers and plants; Mrs. J. Naysmith, white elephant; Mesdames Austin Curtis, R. Ferrie and S. Phillips, home cooking; Mrs. R. G. Aitkin, Miss M. Macintosh, aprons; Mrs. J. T. Ratcliffe and Mrs. F. G. Greenway, receipts.

Assisting Mrs. H. Kolb and Mrs. G. Holt, tea conveners, were Mesdames E. Conrad, J. Locke, D. R. McAdams, A. Jackson, A. Wilson, E. Simmonds, J. Duck and D. Holder. Also assisting members of the auxiliary were members of Lions' auxiliary.

Trays of flowers were sold by Girl Guides, Barbara Allen, Jean Parby, Ruth Wakeman and Pat Keirs, Oaklands' First Central; Wilma Martensen and Yvonne, Leitz, Second Central, St. John's.

Young Artists Present Program At Annual Musicales

Attractively decorated with summer flowers the lounge of the Oak Bay Beach Hotel was the setting Wednesday evening for the 5th annual musicale given by the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club in aid of their Bay Wigley scholarship fund.

The program was arranged by Mrs. J. Ingram Smith and presented some of Victoria's outstanding talent among the younger set who are members of the intermediate Victoria Arts Society.

Miss Patricia Shakespeare delighted the audience with her piano solos which included "Cuckoo Flowers," by Armstrong Gibbs; "An Idyll" and "Sanatina," No. 10, by Bela Bartok.

The Trimble sisters, Vivian and Muriel gave vocal selections accompanying each other at the piano, while later in the evening they sang duets, accompanied by Marion Gibbs.

A verse speaking choir from the Victoria School of Expression recited the "Highwayman." Those taking part were Misses Marjorie Gilbert, Marilyn Leigh, Mary Griffin, Carolyn Sinkinson and Marjorie Durnin. Miss Marilyn Leigh and Miss Marjorie Gilbert also gave solo recitations.

Others contributing to the program were an instrumental trio comprising Bernard Rain, Douglas Erikson, violinists, and Miss Mary Cameron, pianist; also Miss Ann Robertson, violinist, accompanied by Miss Dorothy Francis.

Following the musical program a coffee party was held in the dining room of the hotel where Mrs. F. C. Paterson and Miss Alma Russell presided at the urns. In charge of refreshments were Mrs. M. Curry, Mrs. M. Clement, Mrs. R. Hebden and Miss H. Cruikshank.

Guests were welcomed by the hostesses Mrs. Norma Macdonald, Miss Frances Jordan and Mrs. C. Smith. Ushering were Miss L. Henderson, Mrs. J. Ingram Smith and Mrs. Marguerite Laughlin, while tickets were in charge of Mrs. Ruby Masters. Mrs. Laughlin voiced the thanks of the club at the close of the program.

Solarium Junior League Present Cheques To Aid Crippled Children

Another successful year will go down in the history of Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League, it was shown in reports read at the annual banquet-meeting held last evening at Royal Colwood Golf Club.

Treasurer's report given by Miss Shirley Simpson, stated that $19,650 had been raised by the girls this year; $16,747 of this total was realized through the Shower of Dimes.

Mrs. C. H. Miller, president, presented a cheque for $8,000 to Logan Mayhew, president of the Solarium board of directors, to be used for general maintenance, also one for $10,000 for construction of ambulant patients' dining-room; exterior painting; supplying and installing blinds for ward rooms; repairing flat roofs of isolation service rooms and play-rooms; and furnishing doctor's office.

Other cheques presented were $841 to Dr. David M. Boyd, for purchase of short-wave diathermy set; Solarium Woman's Auxiliary, $200 for rehabilitation fund, and $100 to Avair Chapter, to assist in making clothing.

In the president's report, Mrs. Miller stated that the larger projects for the year were co-sponsorship with Kinsmen's Club for Ice Cycles; Snowball Frolie; Shower of Dimes; tag day; raffie of model house at B.C. Product's Fair; summer fashion show and garden party.

Miss Marguerite Hinkman was elected president of the league and other officers are Betty Fraser, vice-president; Pat Garard, recording secretary; Frances Wilson, corresponding secretary, and Shirley Simpson, treasurer. Willard Ireland, provincial librarian and archivist, guest speaker, chose as his topic, "Nothing New Under the Sun."

Among the special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Mayhew, members of the board of directors and their wives; members of the active medical staff, Dr. Boyd, Dr. T. F. Rose, and Dr. A. E. Trotter, and their wives; J. S. Holdstock, Solarium administrator; Mrs. Latsie McCullough, public relations officer; Mrs. E. M. Jones, president of Woman's Auxiliary; Mrs. Margaret Drinkwater, and Mrs. Peggy Gordon, both of Vancouver, members of Thetis Chapter; and Mrs. Ena Swires, North Vancouver, president of Avair Chapter.

An early evening reception preceded the meeting and guests attended a dance to mark the 12th annual gathering.

Mrs. Fraser and Miss Duncan were in charge of dinner arrangements and Miss Pat Jones convoked the dance.

Bride Wears Blue Taffeta Wedding Gown

An ice-blue taffeta ballerina-length gown was the bridal choice of Ann Dawson Turner, neice of Mrs. W. B. Leach and Mrs. James Gray, Victoria, who she became the bride of William S. Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hughes, Nanaimo, in Church of the Immaculate Conception, Vancouver. Father Kennedy officiated.

The bride complemented her gown with a bouquet of gardenias and swainsons. Miss Eva Simpson, only attendant, was gowned in primrose yellow.

George Murray, New Westminster, was best man, and ushers were Pat Hughes, Campbell River, and Edward Taylor, Vancouver.

Michael McPherson proposed the toast to the bride at the reception held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. E. M. Taylor, North Burnaby. A four-tier wedding cake, iced to match the bride's dress and trimmed with yellow roses matching the bridesmaid's dress centred the bride's table.

Upon leaving for her honeymoon in Kelowna and parts of the United States the new bride donned an imported navy blue suit from New York with which she wore white accessories. The newlyweds will live at Campbell River.

Victoria-Birmingham Share Interest In Recent Marriage

A quiet ceremony at the home of the officiating minister, Dr. W. W. McPherson, Oliver Street, united in marriage Mary Isabel Richardson and Norman John Bouckley.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Mary Richardson, Central Avenue, and the late Adam Richardson, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harold Bouckley, Birmingham, Eng.

Pink lace over taffeta fashioned the pretty gown which had a softly sheered bodice, matching jacket with lily point sleeves and peter pan collar. The bride's head-dress of pink carnations and mauve sweet peas held the shoulder-length veil. To complete her gown, the bride wore a corsage bouquet to match her head-dress.

Mrs. J. D. McAulay, Ashland, Ore., matron of honor, wore a black and white check taffeta afternoon dress with pink accessories. Her corsage bouquet was pink carnations.

A luncheon party followed the ceremony at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel. A decorated wedding cake centred the bride's table.

Femmes Read Of Royalty, Babies But Cool On Politics, State Of Nation

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

"Trying to be 'all things to all women' is quite a job for a man or a magazine."

But Jerry Anglin, fast-talking associate editor of Chatelaine, a Canadian magazine for women, is willing to try. In Victoria on a rapid one-day trip Wednesday, he stopped long enough to say:

"Women's magazines in the past have put the blinkers on... Babies and royalty can't miss... they are tops in interest to women..."

"Politics? No... Finance and industry? I did a story once on a woman stockbroker... we thought because it was finance we'd get the male readers and because it was a woman, we'd get the female. Result was nobody read it."

Princess Popular

Since Canada does not, as the United States, offer a sufficiently wide field for magazines slanted individually at the teen-ager-the career girl, the home-maker or the grandmother, hence the need for an "all-things-to-all-women" magazine, according to Mr. Anglin.

Currently crossing the country to find writers and get story ideas of a broad national interest, the editor, family man with a wife and three children back in Toronto, never under-estimates the value of the house and home articles.

He said a recent survey of one magazine revealed the top reader interest story concerned Princess Elizabeth and her babies.

So low on the ladder that it almost missed the bottom rung was the story of an all-star football team. "Women apparently, couldn't care less."

Women may cry out they are fed up with talk of babies, fashions and Princess Margaret Rose's latest beau... that they long for some masculine conversation about politics and industry and so on... don't you believe it.

Finance Bore Them

It's one way to bore them to death, judging from a few statistics Jerry Anglin can throw around.

"Is the rage for medical articles still on?" he was asked.

"Oh, the you-and-your-kidneys type?... Yes..."

With a view to holding interest of women from 16 to 80 the magazine finds personality, career type and human interest stories pay off in circulation. Story of a young family who built their own house, have their own pottery shop on the premises... communities which have a special problem to meet—all these will be read by women, according to Mr. Anglin.

Surveys and questionnaires on what people consider the "ideal Canadian home" provide both service and story interest, he said.

"Men? We ignore them completely," was the comment.

However, he amended this later

First U. Of A. Awards In Art

EDMONTON (CP)—Three residents of Toronto were named today as winners of the first U. of A. awards in art.

Miss Mazo de la Roche was given the award in letters, Dr. Healey Willan the one in music and Dr. Alexander Y. Jackson the award for painting and related arts.

The three were chosen as recipients of gold medals by committees which included a member nominated by the U. of A. board of governors and two representatives of the national organization in each field.

VULCAN, Alta. (CP)—A purse from the community gold watches from the family, music and many others were received by Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Williams, marking their 60th wedding anniversary at Lomond. The occasion was also Mr. Williams' 80th birthday.

MAY BE EQUATORIAL TUNA TO ADD TO WORLD'S FOOD

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Evidence that there may be a tuna fish belt along the equator in the Pacific Ocean capable of adding to the food supply of both America and Asia was reported today by a government scientist.

Calculations about the behavior of ocean currents and how they affect marine life led to discovery of this new potential fish supply.

Dr. O. E. Sette, a researcher for the United States Fish and Wildlife Service, headed the operations. He told about it at a meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Decrease In Most B.C. Fruit Crops

The B.C. Apple crop this year is estimated by provincial agriculture department officials at 2,008,833 boxes less than the 1950 crop—a drop of 22.87 per cent.

Officials said today a decrease is expected in all districts—the Okanagan from 8,008,073 boxes last year to 6,227,900 this year; the Kootenay from 651,788 boxes to 430,700; the Fraser Valley from 97,894 to 95,000; and Vancouver Island from 24,718 to 20,000.

Estimates of crops of other fruit in the Fraser Valley and Vancouver Island show decreases in many varieties. On Vancouver Island the pear

Will Fly Veterans

SEATTLE (UP)—Striking United Airlines pilots here said today they would interrupt their strike at any time to fly returning veterans from Korea to their homes.

crop is expected to be 15.15 per cent lower than last year; the plum crop 13.9 per cent lower; prunes 20.18 per cent; cherries 25.78 per cent lower; strawberries .61 per cent; raspberries 10.23 per cent; loganberries 31.41 per cent; and grapes 6.76 per cent.

Increases are expected in Vancouver Island blackberries of 33.26 per cent; black currants of 32.51 per cent; red currants 6.76 per cent; and gooseberries 3.55 per cent.

REPLACE GAS WITH CHARCOAL

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Gasoline is so scarce in the south China province of Kwangtung that the government has ordered all public vehicles to use charcoal burners instead, a newspaper reports here. The change was ordered for June 30.

Wood Pulp Price Pegged

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government Wednesday set dollar-and-cents ceiling prices on 12 standard grades of domestic wood pulp and four grades of imported wood pulp. The ceilings are effective June 30.

The Office of Price Stabilization said the ceilings do not apply to Canada, where action has been taken to stabilize wood pulp prices. The O.P.S. said Canada has promised that no general increase will be authorized without consultation with U.S. officials. Wood pulp is the basic raw material used generally in manufacture of wood and paper products, besides newsprint used by newspapers. Spain produces about one-half the world's olive oil.
